O L

COLONIAL ECHO

O R E W O R D

The COLONIAL ECHO is William and Mary . . .

it is you. Just as time has marched through its pages recording college life, so in a continuing pattern the ECHO of today will become an echo from yesterday. From its pages the five o'clock chimes will ring out . . . football cheers will rebound . . . serenade voices will float in . . . the medley of bull sessions will become vibrant.

With a sincere hope that we have so recorded the feelings of today that such vivid memories may be recalled tomorrow, the editors present the nineteen hundred and fifty-eight edition.

Received by the Colonial Office of the U.S. Government for the Presentation of Bicentennial Bicentenaries

It took much to build the College . . . more than the passage of years. It took the founding . . . of proud and royal origin . . . but more important, one which was motivated by a purpose of the highest essence . . . for she was established "to the end that . . . the Youth may be piously educated in good Letters and Manners . . ."

Concrete realization of this highest essence was necessary too . . . realization embodied in great men and great deeds. These were the proof of that essence . . . yesterday's symbols . . . today's tradition. These were men such as Washington, Jefferson, Marshall, and Wythe, whose later deeds were testimony of their magnitude of spirit and ambition . . . spirit and ambition which were nourished, perhaps acquired, through the College . . . under her influence. These, too, were the deeds of such men who changed history . . . deeds of the College and of her "children" which revolutionized collegiate life.

It took faith and courage to make the College . . . to motivate her great deeds . . . not faith and courage "because of" the past, but "in spite of" the future. Without this, the royal origin and highest ideals would have been in vain . . . with this, they became living symbols of tradition and faith. It was such as this that made men struggle in spite of indifference and inadequate finances . . . it was such as this that made a man ring the College bell once every year in spite of empty classrooms . . . so that there would still be a College of William and Mary in Virginia . . . a college with a vibrant traditional past . . . a college which would be ready to meet the demands of the future.

ODAY

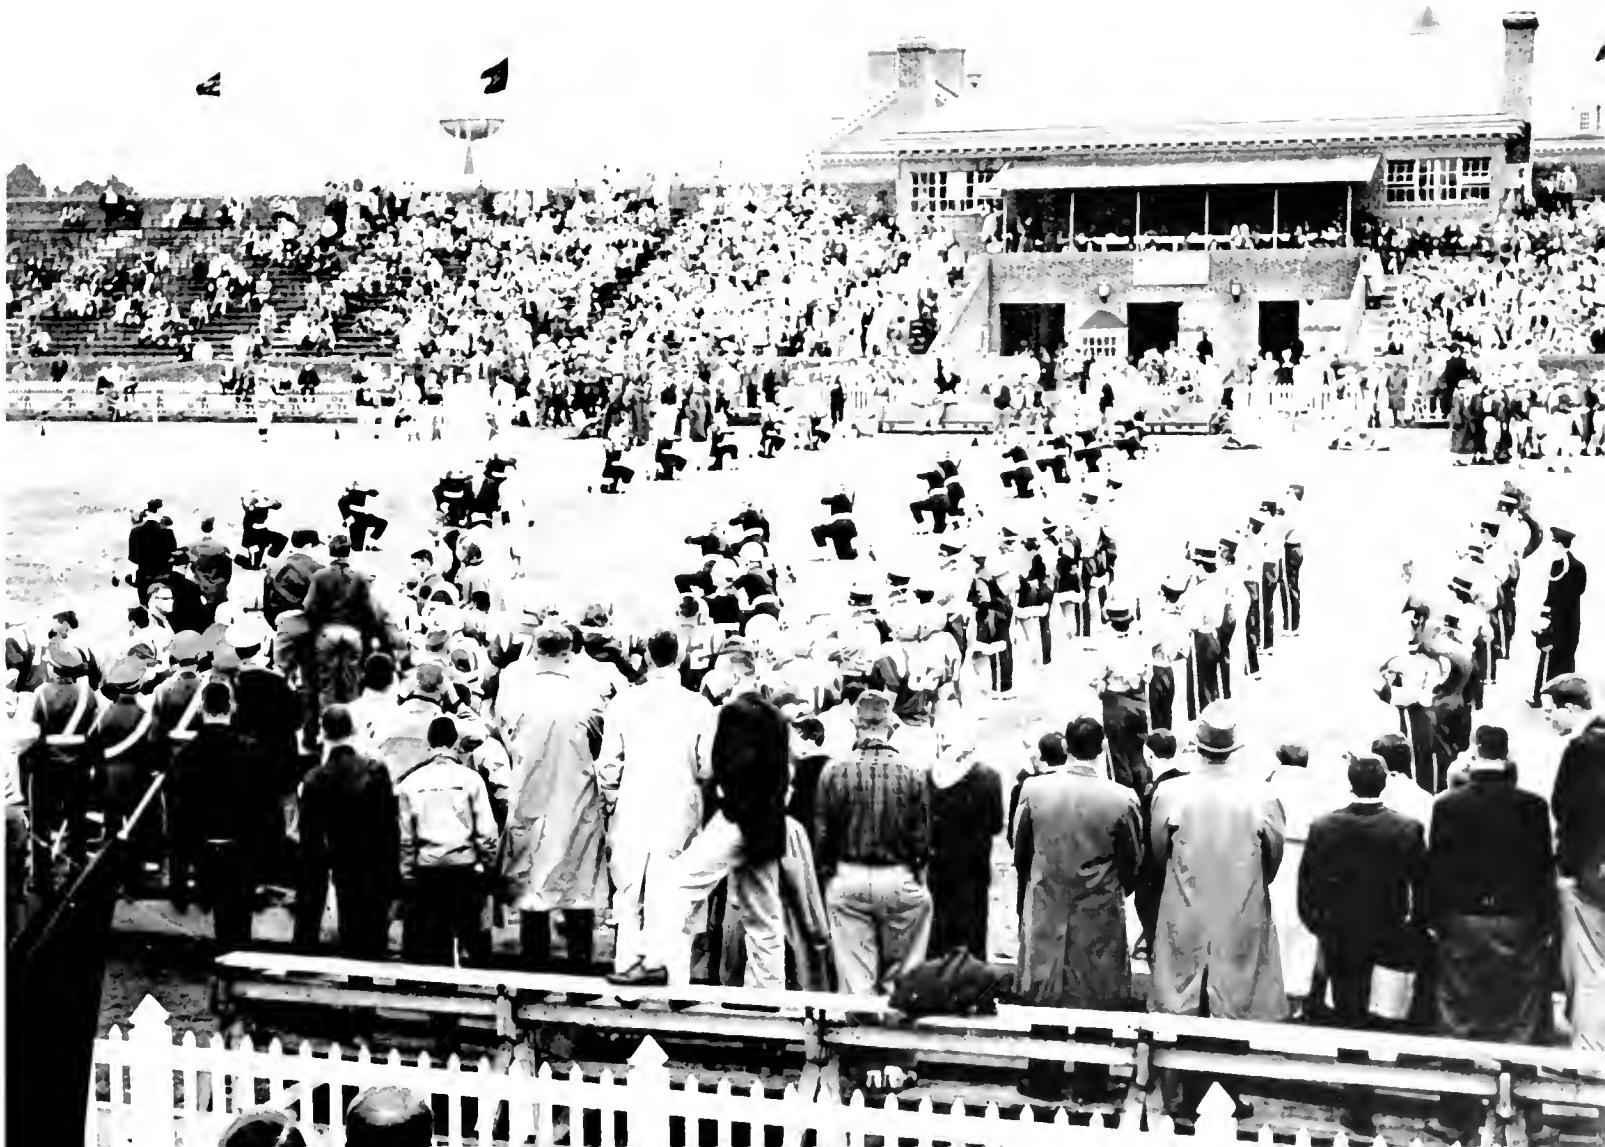

Today the College is . . . it has become a working reality perhaps exceeding the dreams and plans of the past . . . but more than that, the College is today's link between past and future . . . an incorporate body in which yesterday's symbols are today's living tradition . . . a tradition expanding to fill today's needs and translating them into more symbols . . . to add to tomorrow's store of tradition.

The greatest of the past . . . men, deeds, and motives . . . live in the College today. They live in significant traditions . . . in the titles and ritual of academic occasions . . . in the mace of student self-government . . . in the names and furnishings of College edifices . . . in the continual existence of traditional organizations . . . in the traditions of Homecoming and Colonial Festival . . . in the high standards and ideals of academic pursuits. In these symbols, tradition continues as a perpetual allegiance to the past.

Yet her greatness of today is more . . . the expansion of the old to include the new . . . this is our pride in the College today. Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity . . . still existing in tradition and highest ideals . . . now is symbolized in a modern structure . . . capable of fulfilling the needs of today. In the academic building of traditional names, modern thoughts are presented with the old . . . an opportunity to learn of yesterday and today. In the Great Hall . . . an environment from the past . . . yesterday's Christmas customs are mingled with new carols and voices of today. We are honored with royal and distinguished visits . . . reminiscent of ancient royal ties in a modern role.

This is the progress of William and Mary . . . these its present symbols . . . drawn from tradition of the past . . . to become the tradition of the future.

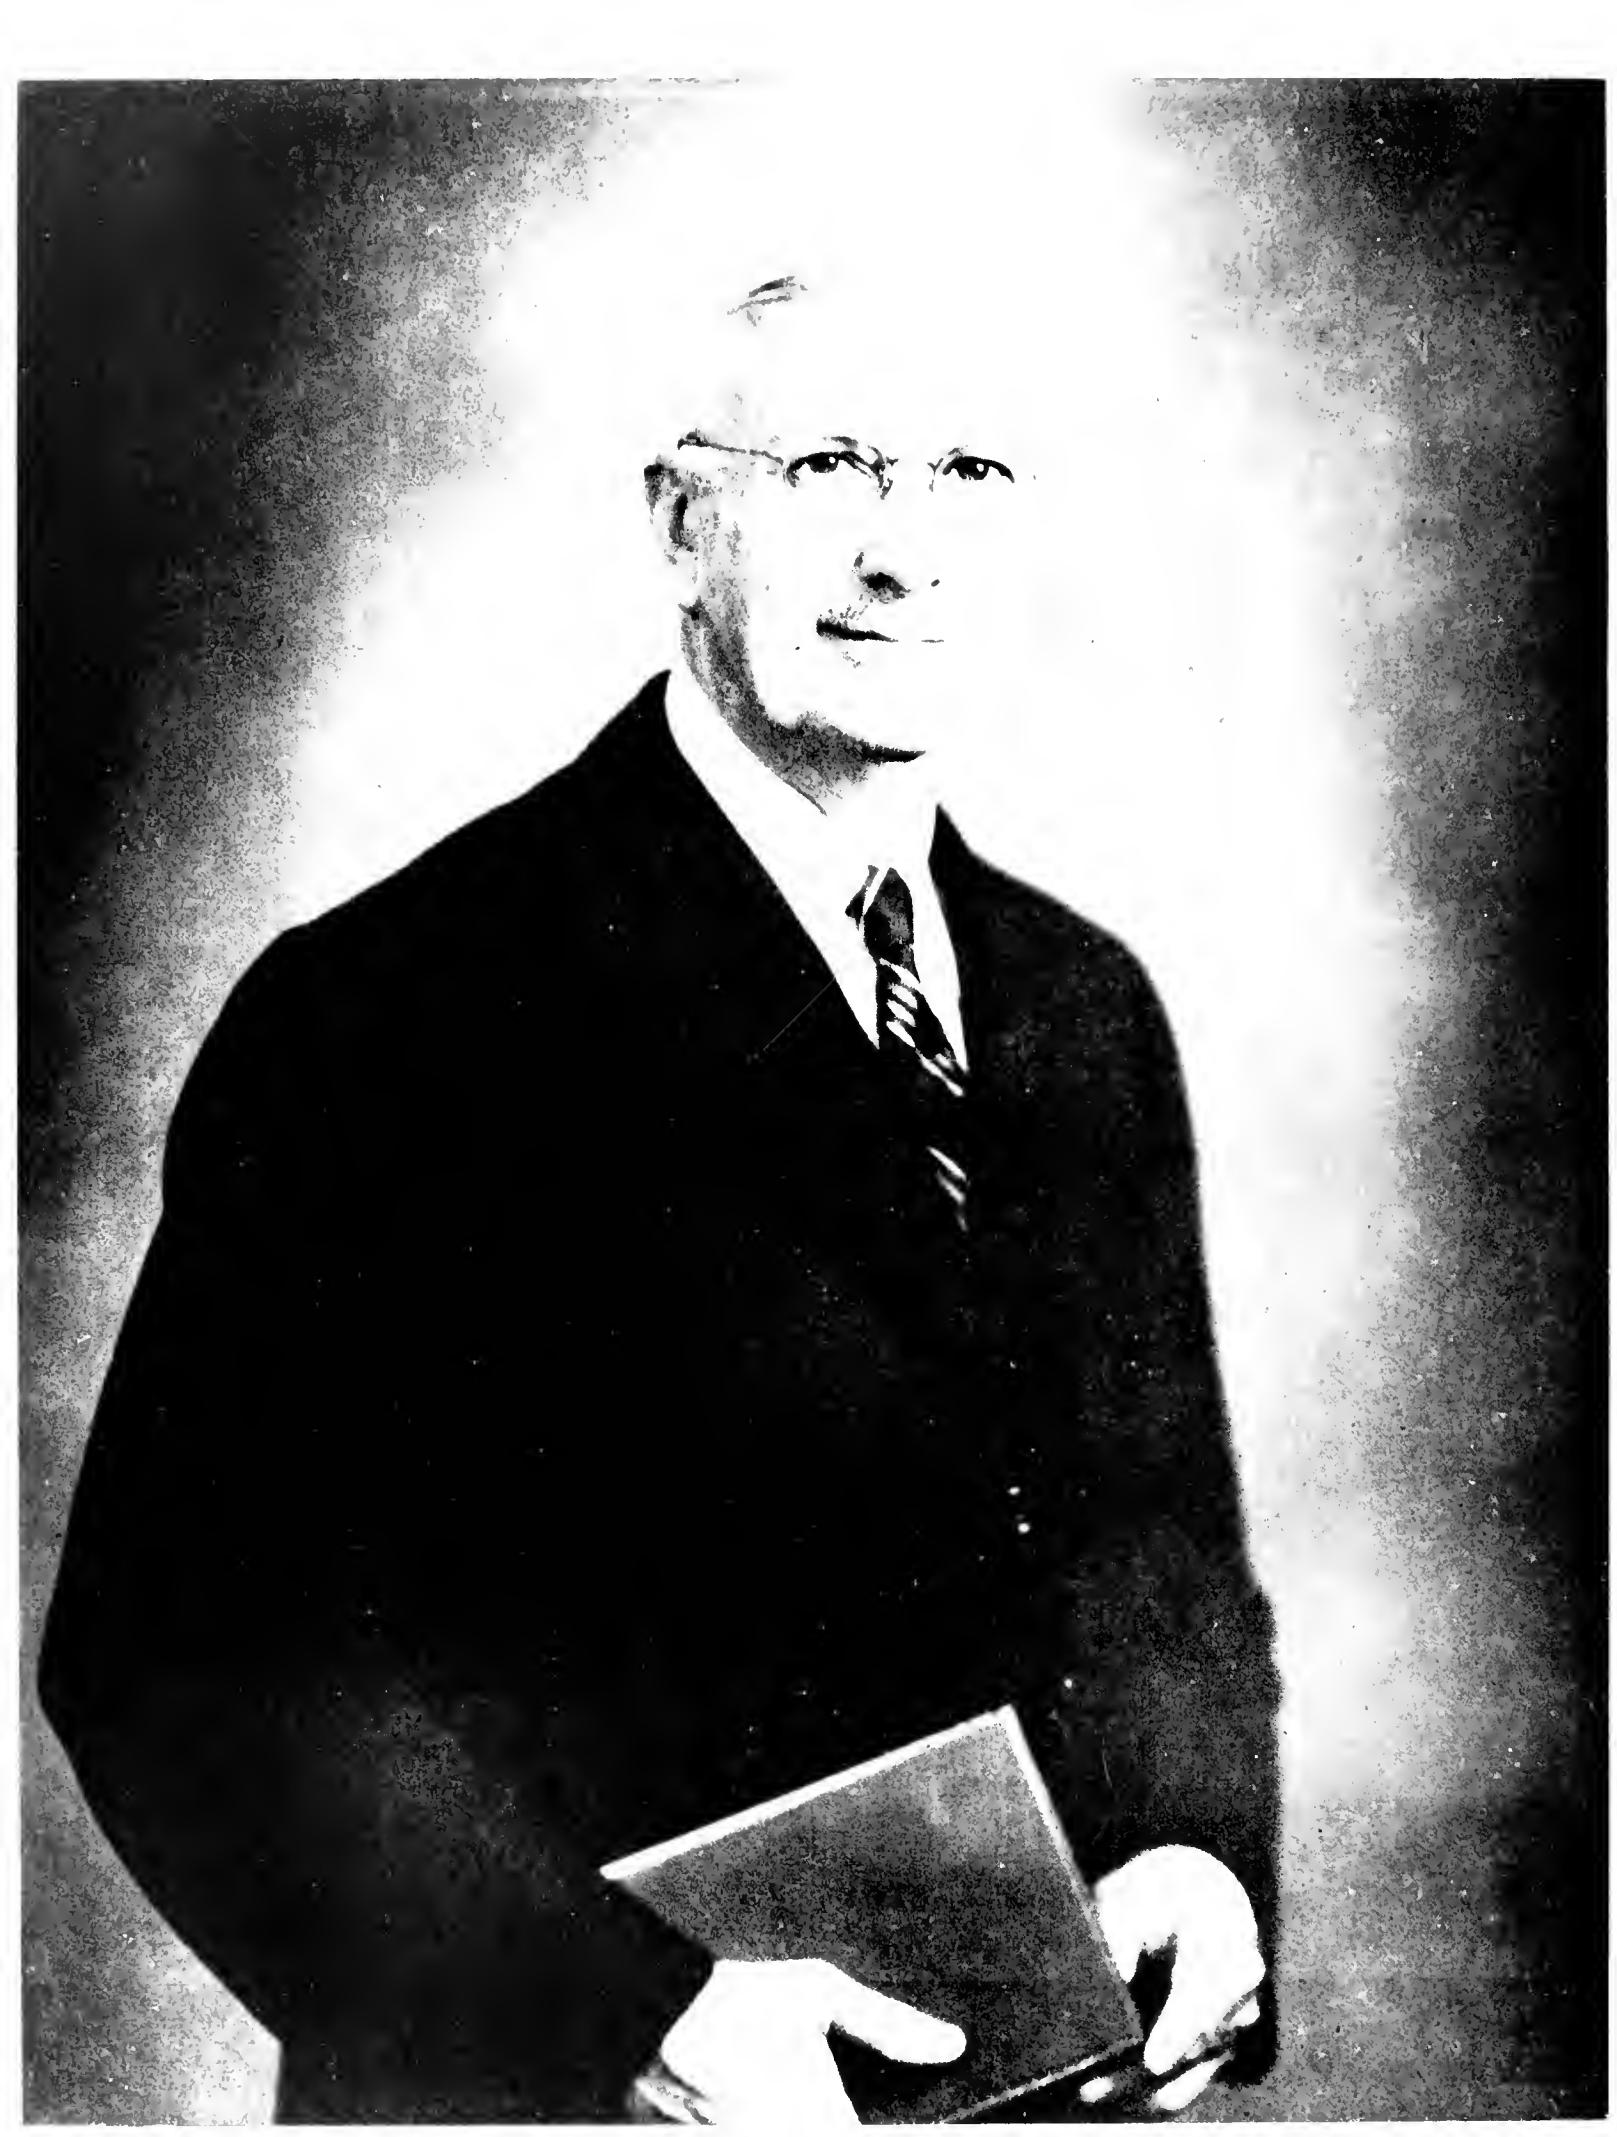

OMORROW

As yesterday was . . . as today is . . . so will tomorrow be . . . for the pattern has been cut. The College of tomorrow will follow as a continuance of tradition and symbols drawn from yesterday and today. The pattern is good . . . founded on highest ideals, strength, courage, and the proven ability to grow and progress . . . the future need not be feared.

The College will be changed . . . yet she will be familiar to all of us. Her ideals and traditions will be the ones we know . . . enriched and strengthened by further passage of time. Her growth and progress achieved today will have become a part of tradition . . . though less ancient, they will be no less worthy of their place in her past. Her future will hold innovations . . . yet even they will not be unfamiliar . . . for they will be based on these same standards. New facilities, necessitated by the growth of the present, will be honored by names from the past . . . Landrum, Ewell, and others . . . an evidence of her reverence for tradition and her ability to adapt it for use in the future.

Even as there was yesterday and is today . . . tomorrow there will be a College of William and Mary in Virginia . . . a college of proud and royal lineage . . . enriched by her past . . . living in the present . . . looking toward her future.

EDICATION

For his outstanding service to the College of William and Mary, the staff of the COLONIAL ECHO proudly dedicates the nineteen hundred and fifty-eight edition to Dr. Anthony Pelzer Wagener. During his years at the College he has served loyally, devoting his time and energy in numerous capacities. Dr. Wagener has been head of the Department of Ancient Languages since he joined the faculty of William and Mary in 1929. In 1956 he became a Chancellor Professor and has officiated as Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Special Events. In addition to innumerable services to the College, Dr. Wagener has been active in various national associations. He is listed in Who's Who and is a noted author and scholar. It is our privilege and honor to have him on the faculty at William and Mary.

THE BOARD OF VISITORS

The Board of Visitors is the governing body of the College of William and Mary. It is composed of eleven members, at least six of whom must be alumni of the College, plus an ex officio member, the Superintendent of Public Instruction. They are appointed by the Governor of Virginia and confirmed by the General Assembly. The term of office for each member is four years, no one member being able to serve over two successive terms.

Each year there are five regular meetings of the Board of Visitors. Additional meetings may be called by the rector or chairman when deemed necessary. In 1957-58 the Rector, elect, was James M. Robertson; the Vice-Rector, H. Hudnall Ware, Jr.; and Secretary, Roy R. Charles.

The rights, powers, and duties of the Board control and expend funds of the College; make all needful rules and regulations concerning the College; appoint the President and all professors, teachers, and agents; fix tuition and fees; and confer degrees.

During the year 1957-58 the Board of Visitors authorized the institution of the Honors Program, and permitted participation of the College in the Advanced Placement Program and the granting of advanced placement and credit.

H. Hudnall Ware, Jr., J. D. Carnal, Jr., H. Lester Hooker, Edward P. Simpkins, Jr., Roy R. Charles, James M. Robertson, Alvin Duke Chandler, Mrs. Philip W. Hiden, T. Edward Temple, R. William Arthur, John V. Bauserman.

Alvin Duke Chandler, the twenty-third President of the College of William and Mary, has continued to show his excellent administrative ability and devotion to the best interests of the students throughout this year. He has persistently worked for various improvements in the College such as the construction of new buildings. Even more important have been his efforts to continue William and Mary's role as one of the finest colleges by raising the standards and quality of education.

Not only interested in our college, he has also been very active on the Jamestown Commission. As our representative, he was a dignified and worthy host during the visits of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip of England, and the King of Morocco.

On November 16th the Alumni Medallion was conferred upon the President by the Society of the Alumni in appreciation of his service to the College.

To further closer relations between the student body and administration, the President and Mrs. Chandler gave receptions for each class. These were extremely successful and proved to be an excellent opportunity for the students to meet and talk informally with the President and his wife.

Through the fine leadership and guidance of President Chandler, William and Mary continues to be a college worthy of our pride.

Analytics in three dimensions

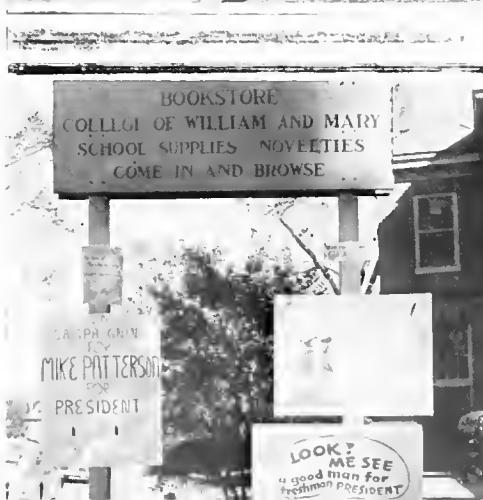

Physics Department at work

Nothing characterizes a college more than its students. And as students we pictured ourselves as: the Seniors—They've finally made it and are entering the world of business and homemaking as William and Mary alums; the Juniors—The worst of the grind has passed, they've crossed the Rubicon, started their majors and application of their dreams of the future; the Sophomores—They're "wise fools," full of ideals, data and the work of distribution requirements; the Freshmen—Their wide-eyed innocence almost over, they find the sophomore slump impending and the thrill of William and Mary strong in their hearts.

L A S S E S

Caps and Gowns at last!

In keeping with three years previous, the Senior Class participated actively in numerous functions this year. Their monthly dinner-meetings were extremely successful, and thus contributed to the interest in and efficiency of their various undertakings. In early October, when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip honored the College with their visit, the Senior Class donned academic regalia and witnessed the proceedings from reserved seats. In early November the class sponsored the election and presentation of the Homecoming Queen and her court. Then, as is tradition, the class marched in the processions for the convocations throughout the year, taking active part in the permanent institution of the annual Fall Honors Convocation.

This year, however, due to the numerous activities and the flu epidemic in the fall, the Senior Class decided to hold its Sadie Hawkins Day dance during the second semester in place of the usual time first semester, and to incorporate it with Student Government Week. Also, in accordance with tradition, the last day of classes for the year was set aside as

THE SENIOR

Senior Day. It commenced with a breakfast and the reading of the Class History, and to add to the confusion of the occasion, a parade through the classrooms was formed by singing and shouting seniors, and followed by a meeting at corner Greeks. That evening the alumni kindly presented them with a picnic which was postluded with another meeting at Greeks. All good things must come to an end, and at this time exams descended upon campus. After these trials and tribulations, the week-end of graduation began the ending of another semester, as well as a prosperous four years of undergraduate study.

The class was not without its tragedies, however. In early spring June 1957, one of their class members, Carl Hibbard, met an untimely death in an automobile accident, and, that next November, news of another well-remembered classmate, Charles Sidwell, was heard with great surprise and sincere regret. Thus the four years drew to a close bringing recollections of inevitable sorrows, but most certainly overbalanced by the many happy memories of the College of William and Mary and her students.

THE UNION

The Juniors get together

The Class of 1959 began its junior year by electing its officers in March. Steve Oaks was elected President; Harry Miller, Vice-President; Ann Hansbarger, Secretary-Treasurer; and Gail Jordan carried on as Historian.

In April an election was held to plan activities which the Class desired to sponsor during the approaching session, 1957-58. A Junior Weekend which had been held the previous year was highly favored by the Class and this year it was held on February fifteenth. Elected to reign over the dance were a "Comic King and Queen of Hearts," Tom Law and Fleevy Green. The decorations carried out the theme, "My Funny Valentine." Another highlight of the week-end was the presentation of a Jazz Concert which was held in the gymnasium. Students brought baskets and sat on the floor and enjoyed themselves immensely. Both dance and concert were, needless to say, a big success.

On November 24th the Class gave a tea at the Great Hall for the faculty, administration and families, and housemothers. This was the first time that a class had given a function of this nature, and it was enjoyed by everyone present. On December eighth President and Mrs. Chandler gave their annual "At Home Tea" for the class.

The spring calendar was full as the Juniors planned a dance in Bryan Patio and also a picnic at Yorktown, an ever popular outing. Yes, the Junior Class has had an active year, but it is looking forward to an even more successful senior year.

Moving in?

THE SOPHOMORE

Gung Ho, Sophs

This year has been most successful for the Sophomore Class. Under the capable leadership of its President, Joe Alexander, who willingly filled the office left vacant in the beginning of the year, the organization of potentiality has been actualized.

According to precedent, members of the Class conducted Freshman Tribunals. A sophomore prosecutor, judge, and jury composed of ten members indicated and convicted members of the freshman class for insubordination and violation of "duc" rules in a mass trial. Assisted by representatives of the Sophomore Class, the freshmen were subjected to various punishments in the form of stunts which served as entertainment for both groups.

A major function of the Sophomore Class is the organization of the Freshman Class by introducing potential class leaders to members of their group and familiarizing them with campaigning procedures. Through mass meetings of the freshmen, this was accomplished. Much enthusiasm, as indicated by the vigorous campaigning of the several parties led to the election of Freshman Class officers.

Officers of the Sophomore Class met with Mrs. Chandler in February to schedule the President's Open House, an occasion which provides an opportunity for the Class and administration to meet informally. Signing the guest book proved to be most inviting, since Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip had both put their signatures in the book, and students wanted to share this privilege.

The calendar of activities for the 1957-58 session included a dance held in the early spring. This was a highlight of the social activities, plans being formulated by a committee headed by Warren Joblin.

The Sophomore Class has as its aims to continue and further the ideals for which the College stands by creating unity within the Class and promoting its interests and activities for the good of the College.

THE RESHMAN

Trials of "duk week"

When the Class of '61 converged upon Williamsburg from all points of the compass, it was not yet a class. It was simply a typical unorganized group of young people out of the high schools of the State and Nation. As individuals, each had his own hopes, his aspirations, and his fears. Each had his own assessment of his worth, measured partly by what he knew he had achieved—partly by what others had credited him with doing. But the group was blessed with one common attribute, which has always proved a constant companion of success—enthusiasm.

Almost immediately, this individual enthusiasm became apparent in small groups; in the dorms, in the cafe, on the wellworn path to the postoffice—almost any place where new students found themselves meeting others in the same boat. There followed a simultaneous growth in the size of these groups and the amount of spirit they possessed. Now a new challenge faced the group (then in the final stage of its metamorphosis into a true class)—that of having the greatest campaign in William and Mary history. And they did.

The election results showed that by no means did a single party have a monopoly of the votes. The four officers: Bottoms, Berkowitz, High, and Bowen were selected from two parties; the assembly: Benner, Law, Sykes, Burnside, Darrow, and Gobrecht represented several others, as well as the independents.

Little time was wasted getting down to business. The Freshman and Sophomore classes joined forces on two important projects: improving the spirit of Freshman tribunals, and sponsoring a dance in the Spring. The new class hoped also to have a Freshman sock hop to liven up the rather slow post-exam period.

In the beginning, this Class of '61 could not have been aware of its high scholastic standing, comparatively great size, or great potentiality. How wonderful, then, if it could grow to appreciate the fact that the best class has not yet graduated from William and Mary, and set about to achieve for itself that worthy distinction!

Hey down der

If students make the college, student organizations had a large share in making William and Mary. Our extra-curricular activities formed an integral part of college life. They offered the development of friendship, leadership, and interests within the individual student. The organizations on campus presented a wide variety—honor societies, student government, interest groups, religious clubs. William and Mary had something to give each of us, something not found in the classroom. And we had something to give her, for a college is characterized by its students, their service and interest.

This year the annual initiation ceremony and Anniversary Meeting of the Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was held on December fifth, and for the first time, in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The founding of this foremost of all honor societies at William and Mary on December 5, 1776, is a priority of which the College can be justly proud. Originally established as the first Greek letter fraternal organization, Phi Beta Kappa has become an honor society election to which is based upon recognition of outstanding intellectual achievement.

After the initiation ceremony in the Apollo Room, the new initiates and their guests attended a banquet in the Colony Room of Trinkle Hall. At the Anniversary Meeting in the evening, Edward P. Alexander, Rho of Iowa, welcomed the initiates, and Joan Oren made the response on behalf of the new initiates. During the course of the meeting, Robert Lowell, distinguished poet, read two of his poems. The main address, REASON IN AN AGE OF SCIENCE, was given by Dr. Harlow Shapley, Professor Emeritus of Astronomy at Harvard University. Following the meeting, a reception for all present was held in the Dodge Room.

The 1957-58 initiates were: John Hamilton Andrews, David Bennett, Donna Cole, Ruth Cox, Paige Cubbison, Barbara Doan, Joanne Jacobson, George Kvasnicka, Jr., William Mitchell, Ralph Northrop, Jr., John Oren, Betsy Stafford, Clare Vincent, Linwood Farley, George Ofelt, and Edgar Rossheim.

The President's Aides are outstanding students in the various phases of college life selected by the President and his wife to serve as personal aides to the President in receiving and entertaining guests and to escort his official party at all convocations.

This year the Aides received and entertained guests at a luncheon given by the College on Peninsula Day, September twenty-first, and on Burgesses Day, October fifth. They also served as hosts and hostesses at the Glass Open Houses given by the President and his wife.

The practice of choosing President's Aides originated with President John Stuart Bryan in 1935. He designed a seal bearing the College seal that is given to each member.

By virtue of their offices in student affairs, the following students were automatically appointed as Aides for the 1957-58 session: Walter Leyland, President of the Student Body; William Hambler, President of the Senior Class; Stephen Oaks, President of the Junior Class; Lyda Daggett, Chairman of the Women's Honor Council; Thomas Lightner, Chairman of the Men's Honor Council; Betsy Stafford, President of the Executive Council of the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association; Virginia Fleshman, Chairman of the Judicial Council; William McCray, President of Omicron Delta Kappa; Bettye Joyce Nunn, President of Mortar Board; Ellen Dietrich, Editor of Flat Hat.

Two members-at-large are selected from a list of nominees submitted by the students that become President's Aides automatically. The President and his wife study the qualifications of the nominees and then choose two. The members-at-large this year were Patricia King, Secretary of the Student Body; Jim Rosenbaum, Vice-President of the Student Body.

Founded as a national honorary fraternity in 1914, Omicron Delta Kappa outlined its purpose as a threefold program: to acknowledge high achievement and efficiency in collegiate activities; to bring together representative men from all phases of college life for cooperation in worthwhile endeavor; to unite members of the faculty and the student body on the basis of mutual interest and understanding.

On the William and Mary campus, Eta Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa was established in 1921. Twice a year at either an Honors Convocation or at a banquet held in honor of the new initiates new members are tapped. Since national rules require that a candidate be among the upper twenty-five percent of his academic class, and since the local Circle considers the candidate's contributions to the college community through athletics, publications, religious organizations, and a social fraternity, it is inevitable that the members of ODK are among the leaders on campus.

Local projects of the Fraternity include a semi-annual contribution of twenty-five dollars to the College library for the purchase of an American biography, the sponsoring of the Spring Leadership Forum to which each campus organization sends a representative to discuss current problems, and the annual ODK-Faculty basketball game during Campus Chest Week from which the proceeds are contributed to the Chest.

This year, Eta Circle membership included: Bill McCray, President; Bill Rush, Vice-President; Dean Lambert, Secretary-Treasurer; Wayne Kernodle; Howard Smith; Dean Cunningham; Mr. Quinn; Neil Hock; Bob Hardage; Denys Grant; Bill Mitchell; Bill Hambler; Bernie Goldstein; Tommy Law; Paul Wiedenmann; Harry Cornell.

Mortar Board, founded in 1918, is a woman's honorary society whose purpose is to promote service to the College, and leadership and scholarship among the women students by honoring those who have distinguished themselves in these endeavors.

On the William and Mary campus, Virginia Gamma Chapter of Mortar Board was established in 1925. Tapped in the spring of their junior year, members are elected on the threefold basis of service, scholarship, and leadership.

Mortar Board holds regular meetings every other Monday evening and informal faculty coffees every other Thursday afternoon. In all activities, Mortar Board strives to serve the College. First on their schedule this year was the annual fall second-hand furniture sale in Barrett attic. At each campus performance in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall the members provided a coat-checking service.

Any money raised by Mortar Board activities is used for the annual awards and scholarship presented by the Chapter. A leadership award is made to a freshman and a sophomore woman displaying that quality. Another award is made annually to the sophomore woman with the highest academic average. Each year a one hundred dollar scholarship is presented on the basis of service, scholarship, and need to a junior woman.

Mortar Board also serves the College in several other ways which include running a tutoring service, serving at College receptions, and providing magazine subscriptions for all the women's dormitories.

The 1957-58 chapter of Mortar Board had ten regular members and one honorary member, Mrs. J. W. Lambert, the first honorary member in over ten years for the Virginia Gamma Chapter. She was chosen for membership because of her service to the College and to the community. The officers of the Chapter were Betty Joyce Nunn, President; Cynthia Sanborn, Vice-President; Sybil Wrenn, Secretary; Virginia Neeld, Historian; and Gail Morgan, Editor. Serving as advisors to the organization were Miss Rebecca Tinker, Mrs. Boydon Baird, and Miss Martha Barksdale.

"We, the students of the College of William and Mary in Virginia, believing that there are common problems that can be resolved, and common purposes that can be achieved through united effort; and believing that the traditions of student government at William and Mary should be preserved as a sure means of contributing to character and leadership; and desiring to assume responsibility in the management of our affairs, do hereby establish this constitution."

In the interest of fulfilling this purpose Walt Leyland assumed the heavy responsibilities of the Presidency. Through his effort the Student Government has become an organization respected by administration, faculty, and students.

There are three main divisions of the Student Government: the Assembly, the Senate, and the General Cooperative Committee.

The Assembly is composed of forty-one members, as follows: three men and three women from each of the four classes, the Vice-President of each of the four classes, the Secretary of the Student Body, and the twelve members of the Senate.

The Senate, a permanent standing committee of the Assembly, is composed as follows: the Presidents of the four classes, the President and Vice-President of the Student Body, the Chairman of the Men's Honor Council, the President of the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association, the Chairman of the Women's Honor Council, the Chairman of the Women's Judicial Council, the President of the Pan-Hellenic Council, and the President of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The General Cooperative Committee is composed of twenty-three members, as follows: the President of the College, for Administrative officials, four faculty members, the Executive Secretary of the Alumni Society, the Senate, and the Editor of the Flat Hat.

This year the Student Government has attempted to undertake and promote various student interests, such as, sponsoring an Interest Club Night to introduce campus activities to incoming freshmen, endorsing the proposed change of the Alma Mater to the William and Mary Hymn, arranging such social activities as Homecoming and Spring Finals dances, acting as host to members of the Peninsula community on Peninsula Day—a day emphasizing the relationship between the College and surrounding communities, and sponsoring the Campus Chest drive. Through such activities as these the Student Government was able to be of service to the local and surrounding communities as well as fulfilling its obligations to the College community.

Of the events arranged by the Student Assembly, Student Government Week highlighted by such activities as Career Day and the Greek Sing provided both academic and social affairs for the student body. An innovation added to this event was a luncheon for the Assembly to which student leaders of the Norfolk Division of William and Mary and Richmond Professional Institute were invited. This affair provided for closer relationships to be drawn between the students of these two branches and the College.

Other projects of the Student Assembly were the sale of season dance tickets to the freshmen, and the placing of door plaques in the men's and women's dormitories as a means of communication. All in all, the Student Government and its officers can be highly praised for their efforts and achievements during the 1957-58 session.

MEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

The College of William and Mary possesses the first College Honor System in the United States. Founded in 1779, the Honor System has spread throughout other campuses, striving to preserve honor through emphasis on the individual's responsibility. It remains an active force at William and Mary.

The Honor Council's most important duty is to hold trials when necessary. It presides also over student elections and assumes responsibility for counting ballots and posting results.

Freshmen are introduced to the Honor System during Orientation. The Men's Honor Council familiarizes the new students with the system, its traditions, and its high standards. The students are reminded throughout the year of their rights as the accused and of their limitations set up under the Code.

Serving on the 1957-58 Men's Honor Council were: Thomas Lightner, Chairman; Kent Watkins, Vice-Chairman, Alfred Smith, Secretary; William McCrav, Senior Representative; Tom Law and Duane Mink, Junior Representatives; Ralph Crutchfield and Richard Neely, Sophomore Representatives.

J. Dickerson, J. Boorman, E. Rankin, B. Nunn, B. Daggett, G. Sedam, N. Simmons, J. G.

WOMEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

The Honor System, one of the College's oldest, most distinguished priorities was established by the students with the belief that each student of college age possesses both honesty and a sense of responsibility.

It is the role of the Women's Honor Council to uphold the Honor System by investigating alleged infractions of the Honor Code, holding necessary trials, and suggesting penalties for women students found guilty of violating the Honor Code. The Council sends one of its members into each of the women's dormitories before semester examination to remind the women students of their pledge of honor and of its importance.

The Women's Honor Council cooperates with the Men's Honor Council on such matters as orientation, standardization of rules, and the counting of ballots after student government elections.

Members of the Women's Honor Council for the 1957-58 session were: Lyda Daggett, Chairman; Gretchen Sedam, Vice-Chairman; Elaine Rankin, Secretary; Betty Joyce Nunn, Senior Member; Jane Boorman and Nancy Simmons, Junior Members; and Nancy Gilliam and Judith Dickerson, Sophomore Members.

G. Morgan, G. Jordan, K. Chappell, B. Stafford, R. Chesson, I. Schaffer, D. Sheets.

"The purpose of this Association shall be to represent and further the best interests of the women students, to regulate their conduct under the authority of the College, and to promote responsibility and a high sense of honor."

All women students of the College of William and Mary become members of the Association upon matriculation as students on campus, the three councils providing valuable experience in self-government.

The duties of the Executive Council include the handling of all official business, and the considering and acting upon such problems as pertain to the welfare of women students.

Monthly meetings of all women students are held either at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall or Blow Gym, and two one hundred dollar scholarships are awarded annually to deserving students.

The purpose of the Judicial Council is to uphold and maintain the social rules and good conduct of the women students. It is the duty of the Council to deal with those cases reported to it and to give a penalty in proportion to the offense. A subdivision of the Council is the Dormitory Council which is composed of the presidents of each women's dorm, and which discusses and handles problems pertaining to dormitory life.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The Student Publications Committee has been established in an effort to maintain consistent standards of excellence for the College's student publications. Its functions include the selection of the editors for the three student supported publications. At its regular monthly meetings, the Committee discusses general conduct of the publications, formulating rules or regulations as may be necessary. This year the Committee acted in an advisory capacity with regard to the Fat Head, the Flat Hat's one take-off issue each year.

The members of the Committee included Art Gingold, Chairman elected by the Student Assembly; Carolyn Scheele, Editor of the COLONIAL ECHO, and acting secretary; Rusty Dietrich, Editor of the Flat Hat; Gail Morgan, Editor of the Royalist; and Walt Levland, President of the Student Body. Those serving as faculty advisors were Dr. Cecil McCulley, Miss Virginia Tyree, and Mr. Lewis Foster.

COLONIAL ECHO

The COLONIAL ECHO of 1958 made notable changes under the thoughtful guidance of Carolyn Scheele, Editor. The sections have been reorganized into more compact groupings. The theme, based on Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow, is carefully worked out to depict William and Mary, its tradition and its expansion. Though the Class of 1958 lived within both spheres, the emphasis is on Today.

However, the Editor-in-Chief must have a staff of responsible and co-operative members. There were organized editors meetings almost every week in the fall, at which time the staff worked closely together. Each Junior Editor co-operated with the others, though maintaining an independent status on the whole. Of course every Junior Editor received aid and advice from Carolyn. The Associate Editor, Cindy Sanborn, was responsible for the section dealing with the Administration, the Board of Visitors, the President, and the Dedication. When money was concerned, Dave Shepardson, Business Manager, did an excellent job. He straightened out many of the past financial problems and the present budget. He was greatly helped by Mr. Quinn, who worked with the Editors to achieve a balance in dollars and cents.

The Class Editor, Penny Witzenman, was responsible for the large task of organizing and assigning the class pictures. She labored many hours to straighten appointments and alphabetize names. Working with pictures, but those of the individual organizations, Betsy Lanier, Organizations Editor, did a good job. Somehow she managed to have the majority of her work in before Christmas.

The Features Editor, Cyn Brooker, kept the suspense of the Miss William and Mary contest high. She went to Richmond with the candidates when they had their pictures taken and handled the other details of the contest. Cyn also collected the photos for the snaps section.

Bud Mooney, Fraternities Editor, gathered all the pictures and information of fraternities and their presidents as well as the Interfraternity Council. Bud's able assistant, Ginny Kendall, Sororities Editor, managed her half by composing a staff with a representative from each sorority to relay the pertinent material.

This year's Copy Editor, Jan Meyer, strove to get her staff writing early in the fall. Her efforts proved fairly satisfactory, for most of the copy was in before Christmas.

Paul Wiedenmann, Sports Editor, did a commendable job in originating new ideas for his section. Paul decided on the cartoons and planned for the Indian of the Year.

Everyone loves to look at pictures. Pete Clark, Photography Editor, undertook a huge job and carried it out with success. Many long hours, both day and night, were spent taking and developing the numerous photos throughout the book. Pete deserves a lot of credit for completing a difficult task.

The Art Editor, Lloyd Hicks, drew the cartoons in the sports section and did the lettering through the features division. Lloyd and his staff also ably designed the posters and notices that were around campus well before the class pictures and the Miss William and Mary contest took place. The large turnout for both events was due to them.

The Editor would also like to thank the many other persons responsible for helping to publish the 1958 COLONIAL ECHO. Among them, the faculty and the administration for their interest, the Yesterday pictures from Colonial Williamsburg, the introduction section by Jane Ann Mathes, the closing section by Gail Morgan, and Mr. Quinn for his aid with finances.

A yearbook cannot be successful without a lot of thought, work, and co-operation. With these qualities combined and functioning harmoniously, the 1958 COLONIAL ECHO proves a good example of the finished product from these raw materials.

For the Flat Hat, this year has been one of many changes and innovations. The most outstanding of these was the selection of a woman editor, one of the few in the past decade—Rusty Dietrich. Under her able leadership the paper continued to develop as an expression of campus opinions and events. The staff worked toward improvements and new ideas in every detail of the newspaper. Even the index, "What's in the Flat Hat," came under discussion and the success of efforts to make it "colorful" were soon apparent.

Among the innovations were three new columns. Walt Leyland, President of the Student Body, discussed issues and problems of the Student Government. There were two alternating columns by Gary Sterner and Dick Wood written on a variety of subjects, and a column on local entertainment by Paul Gardner. Both Gary Sterner's "Items" and Paul Wiedenmann's sports columns were ornamented with another new feature, a picture of the writer.

Letters to the editor have become more frequent from students who want to express opinions and grievances, especially on such issues as the proposed Alma Mater change. In spite of cut classes, frayed nerves, angry or friendly disputes, and hectic Sundays this year's Flat Hat staff will always remember the year as one of many unforgettable experiences.

Special recognition should be given to Andy Powell, Managing Editor, and Alice Perry, Associate Editor. The staff will remember Andy's careful handling of finances, and Alice's ready Pontiac.

Mary Jamieson and her news staff supplied a digest of campus events for the convenience of the busy student. Paul Wiedemann and his sports staff worked well under a woman editor and produced an accurate coverage of William and Mary's successful year in sports. Recognition should also go to Bobbie Ramsey and her staff who spent hours turning out headlines for stories not yet written, and to Clarisse Harrison and her feature staff who combed the campus for those interesting sidelights to the news.

The year was especially successful for the photography staff, including Mal Powell, Editor; Bob Kilgore, and Jim Little. A two-page spread of pictures provided interesting pictorial coverage of Homecoming events. The use of a new machine at the Virginia Gazette for printing photographs added to the staff's speed and accuracy.

Also deserving praise are Gretchen Grunenthaler, who managed advertising, and Art Gingold, Business Manager, who helped bring the paper from a state of deficit to solvency. The job of delivering and mailing issues was ably handled by Clare Vincent.

The Royalist, a student literary magazine, is comprised of students interested in creative writing. The Royalist, published twice a year, contains the articles of those students who have submitted their works to the staff. The magazine gives literary-minded students a chance to see their work in print. Students with a knack or an interest in writing and in the English language may submit either prose or poetry to the Royalist.

Short stories, narratives, poems, book and play reviews, and topics in drama may all be submitted to the Royalist for review, comment, and criticism by the Critical Staff and Editorial Board which meet with the editors each Thursday to consider entries for the magazine. Each manuscript submitted is anonymous and is carefully read by each member of both staffs before the Thursday afternoon meeting at which time the entries are discussed and selected according to their literary merits and reader appeal. Comments are to be as objective as possible.

From the Critical Staff, chosen for their critical ability, is selected the Editorial Board which works closely with Editor-in-Chief and Associate Editor. Gail Morgan and Missy Mott ably held these positions during the 1957-58 session.

The Art Staff, headed this year by Derry Herron, provides the different covers and illustrations for the Royalist. The staff reads those manuscripts selected, then sketches various pictures to illustrate and carry through as much as possible the theme of the respective story or poem.

The two issues published this year were excellent, providing articles of interest for each of its readers, some with a light, humorous tone, and others with a more moderate, dramatic air.

THE SEMINAR

The Seminar, a relatively new publication on the William and Mary campus, is dedicated to serious and thought-provoking writing. The creation of the magazine was in hope of producing an outlet for non-fictional material.

The contributions are from students as well as the faculty here and from other colleges. This year the magazine has branched out into the field of English with articles on Baudelaire and the seventeenth century poets. The first issue of the Seminar was composed of contributions entirely from William and Mary students here and two that have graduated.

The Editor-in-Chief for this year was William Morris, with Barbara Doan as Managing Editor, and Mary B. Fooks as Business Manager. The Editorial Board consisted of Stephen Babcock, Marion Funk, Lyda Daggett, Jerry Andrews, Donna Cole, and Joan Oren. The Editorial Board is responsible for the selection of material for articles and art work which is also on a competitive basis. This year the Editorial Board assumed the task of rewriting the articles with the author. A revitalization of the work resulted, hence producing better material.

The Seminar also tried to reach the alumni this year through letters and copies of the publication. With their subscription to the magazine, it will become better known. The editors hope that with continuation of the practice that the magazine will increase and that there will be a real growth of interest.

The staff sincerely feels that with every year the Seminar is closer to realizing their ideal of producing an interesting and worthwhile achievement.

Beneath the trees at Matoaka

Under the talented direction of Dr. Carl A. Fehr since 1946, the William and Mary Choir has continued to grow in ability and reputation. Dr. Fehr, better known to the students as "Pappy," has striven to develop a sense of group accomplishment through a hard and exacting discipline that finds its rewards in any future work Choir members may undertake.

This year, as in the past, the Choir members returned from vacation early in September to perform for the freshmen at their picnic held in the Matoaka Picnic Area.

Opening Convocation in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall was embellished by the Choir's anthem and its participation in the processional and recessional. The Choir was also present at the annual Charter Day Convocation and at the Chapel Exercises, enhancing the meaning of the services through choral interpretation.

In October, the Choir contributed many of its members to the Virginia Education Association sponsored College Choir Clinic held annually in Richmond.

In November, the Choir was invited to participate in the ceremony celebrating the victory at Yorktown, an event in conjunction with the Jamestown Festival.

After long and painstaking practice, the Choir, accompanied by the Chamber Orchestra, performed Handel's oratorio the "Messiah." Also in December, the Choir held its traditional Christmas party, and before vacation went caroling around the campus.

After mid-term, the Choir began practice for their Spring Tour, concerts, and home performances. This year's Spring Concert Tour, similar to those of past years, took the Choir along the Eastern coast.

In April, the Choir held its annual Officers' Banquet, at which the coveted service medals were given to deserving members, and the new officers for the coming year were presented.

Finally, in June the Choir sang at the Commencement Exercises, and even then many stayed on to form the nucleus of the Choir which sings in the annual summer production of Paul Green's "Common Glory."

The William and Mary Chorus, under the direction of Dr. Carl A. Fehr, is a preparatory organization for the William and Mary Choir. They add much to the musical atmosphere of the College, and the girls gain useful-enjoyable experience and training from their participation.

The chorus performs at some of the convocations, at the Wednesday night chapel services in the Wren Chapel, and give concerts at Christmas and in the spring.

This year the chorus and choir Christmas concerts were held separately. The girls sang many of the old time favorites and popular Christmas carols. They were ably accompanied by Elizabeth Evans, and the performance was of a superior quality.

The Christmas Chapel Service was presented in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall for the first time this year. Familiar Christmas music was very well received.

The annual Spring Concert included a wide variety of music, designed to satisfy the tastes of every listener. Classical numbers, folk song, and some lighter music were all a part of the program. The versatility and technical accuracy of the members of the chorus were noticed and will be long discussed.

Each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons you will find the William and Mary Band, under the direction of Mr. Charles Varner, practicing for their participation in college activities. The fall season is an especially busy time for the Indian Marching Band. There are parades and pep rallies to practice for, and half-time presentations at football games to plan and perfect. An added attraction of that season is the off-campus trips which the band makes to play for away football games.

Besides the marching band, the college band organizations also include a concert band and a dance band. The concert band is chosen from those students who performed in the marching band. Each year this band presents a Spring Concert. The dance band performs at various functions throughout the year. It is composed of men students who are interested in that type of music and who have participated in other band organizations.

Through participation in these band organizations at William and Mary, students may find pleasure in continuing their musical experiences. As evidence of their years' of service band members receive awards: Uniform stripes, W&M letters, blazers, and lettermen's blankets.

MARY THEATER

Mr. Seammon, Director, and Mr. Sherman, Scene Designer.

"Ghosts"

The four plays presented by the William and Mary Theater during the 1957-58 session were proof of the theater's wide range of talent and ability. The first effort of the year was a historical pageant, Hark Upon the Gale, by Christian H. Moe. The large cast depicted the history of the College since its founding in 1693. Each of the many roles was ably filled, but especially outstanding were Edna Gregory, Robert Wachs, David Weston, and Peter Neufeld. The single dramatic background was made by props and lighting to represent effectively various scenes. The over-all excellence of the acting, direction, and setting combined to make the pageant a landmark in William and Mary's theater history.

Ghosts by Henrik Ibsen, a tense psychological drama, provided a completely different type of entertainment as the season's second presentation. Jean Ventura portrayed brilliantly the mother who hears the ghosts of the unhappy past, while Don Smith superbly filled the role of the son upon whom his father's sins were visited. The dramatic closing will long be remembered by the audience.

"The Matchmaker"

The Theater proved that it could also execute lighthearted comedy with its third production, The Matchmaker, by Thornton Wilder. Set in the 19th century, this play presented the attempts of a widow to capture a wealthy merchant while apparently assisting him to find a wife. Outstanding in the title role was Linda Lavin, who was capably supported by Dana Krueger and John Chevning. The rollicking production was heartily enjoyed by the whole audience.

As is customary, the Theater closed the 1957-58 season with still another type play, Othello, by William Shakespeare. The fine production upheld the Theater's reputation for presenting Shakespeare with talent and skill.

Under the direction of Mr. Howard Seammon, the William and Mary Theater provided the college community with four excellent dramatic productions, and added these to its roster of fine performances.

The Backdrop Club at William and Mary, now in its twenty-first year, devotes its energy to the task of producing an annual musical comedy. The shows given by the club are the original works of the students. They write them, act in them, and produce them. Thus the Backdrop Club remains one of the most active organizations on the William and Mary campus.

The 1956-57 show, written by Peter Neufeld, then president of the Club, was one of the first productions in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Entitled "Theater is a Lady," the show dealt with the lives of Laura and Nicholas Manning, two of Broadway's brightest musical comedy stars. The plot revolved around events happening to the Manning's in the last months of their lives, and occurrences brought about after death by a temporary reprieve granted them by the female director of actor's heaven.

The 1957-58 production, written by Sheila Kessler, was entitled "Assignment: Paris." This was the story of five newspaper people sent to Paris to cover the wedding of an American socialite-movie star to a French duke. The plot of the show centered about the situation provoked when the duke and one of the female reporters, who had had an affair prior to the action of the show, discovered that they were still in love. Some of the songs from the show include: Corpus is the Root of Incorporated! about a movie star who forms her own company, But Otherwise I Think You're Perfect, Interview, We're Only Doing It For Money! and A Mink Will Always Keep You Warm.

Serving as President of the Backdrop Club for the 1957-58 session was Nancy Obert. Sitting in the director's chair was Peter Neufeld, and Lloyd Webb served as Secretary. Holding the title of Business Manager was Pat Hatcher, and the club's Publicity Director was Mary Jamieson. Dave Weston was Technical Director, while Jean Ventura served as Scene Designer. Taking charge of lighting was Clare Vincent, and Tracy Russell handled the musical line. Choreographer was Edna Gregory, and Sandra Brodrick designed and executed costumes. Howard Hill served as Historian, while Connie Hill fulfilled the duties of Corresponding Secretary.

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Established in 1947, and now having the largest enrollment of 330 men, the Reserve Officers Training Corps at William and Mary prepares college men as commissioned second lieutenants in the Regular Army and Army Reserve.

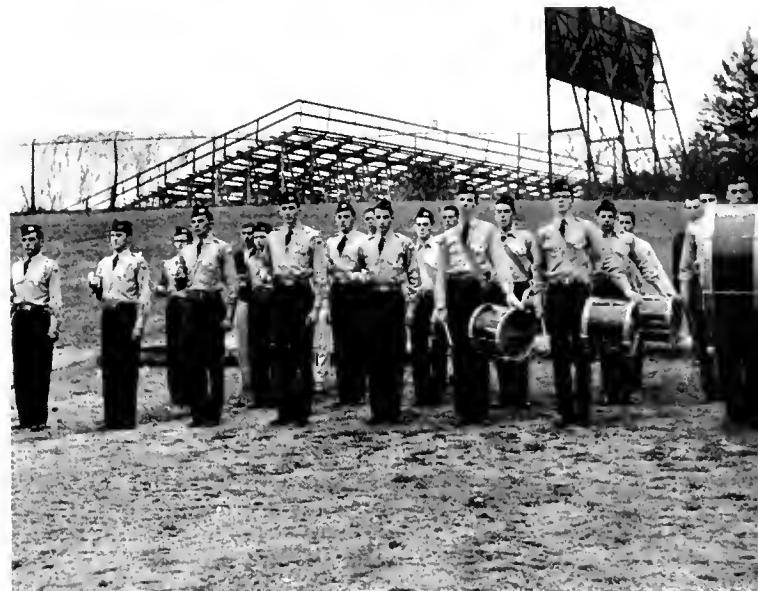

Originally founded as a field artillery unit, the Department of Military Science and Tactics has now incorporated a general military curriculum, allowing cadets to choose the branch of army service they desire.

A Certificate of Completion, to signify his ability, is presented to a cadet who has finished four years, having passed the two phases offered. The first stage is for freshmen and sophomores, and consists of two hours of such courses as map reading, organization and defense, and two hours of drill. The second stage, for juniors and seniors, consists of two hours advanced leadership training, and four hours of drill.

In addition, the juniors and seniors spend six weeks at summer camp, this year at Fort Meade. The ROTC camp is the concentrated laboratory course in military tactics. There the students apply the military theories learned in the classroom. Bivouacs, map problems, operation and employment of the latest weapons and equipment characterize the summer training program.

cluded the privilege of acting as honor guard for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their visit in Williamsburg, and marching in the Homecoming and Christmas parades. The Spring season also had its share of activities. The drill team and bugle corps attended the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, the Annual Military Ball was held, and the rifle team competed for the William Randolph Hearst trophies with all the Southern Conference teams, including Richmond, V.P.I. and other institutions.

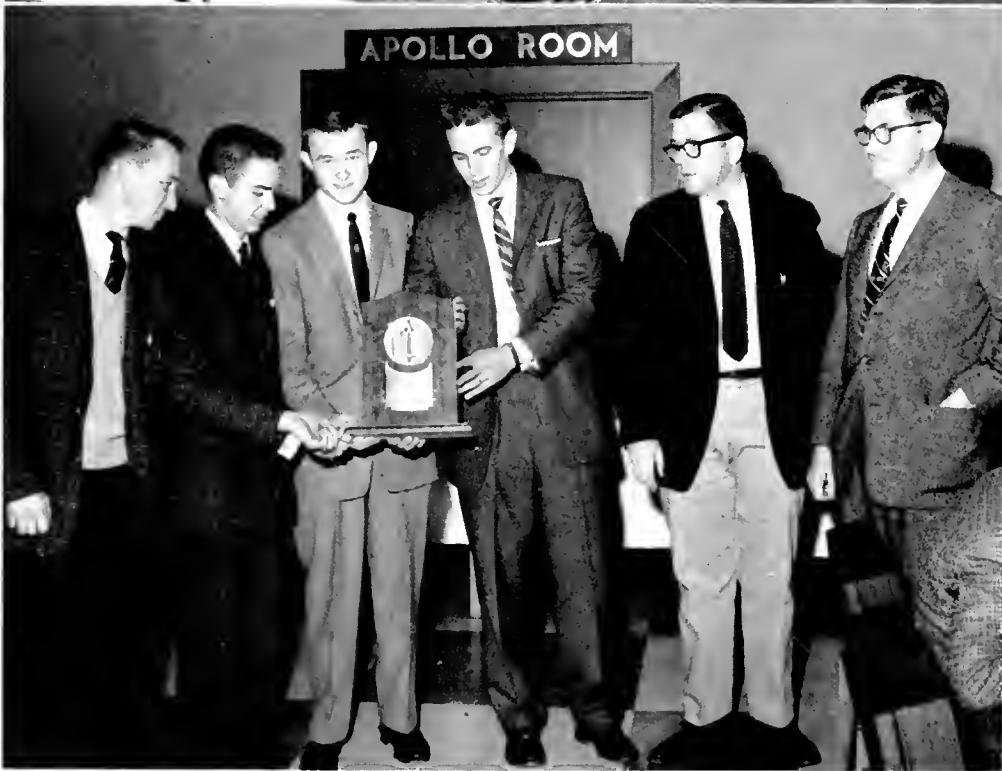

The Corps is formed in companies A, B, and C; each company consisting of three platoons. Captains of the respective companies were William McCray, Sid Pauls, and Don Dew. The Headquarters Company, which is composed of the drum and bugle corps and drill team, was led by Ted Hunnicutt. The Battalion Staff had Neil Hock as Commander, Bob Bradley as Executive, and Tom Lightner as Adjutant. Lieutenant Colonel Carson is Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Tau Kappa Alpha, the national honorary speech and debate society, was lead this year by Dave Roller, President. The society works closely with the Intercollegiate Debate Council and chooses its members from those students who have had two years experience with the Council and who are in the upper third of their class. This society favors those who have achieved academic status as well as being exceptional in debate and oral expression.

The Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament is sponsored annually by the Intercollegiate Debate Council. This year 30 schools attended the two-day tournament held in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall February seventh and eighth. Representing William and Mary were Diane Pickering, James Odell, Roger Green and Lee McCandless. Twenty-five debates were conducted during this period, and individual and team awards were made at a banquet the last night. During the tournament, visiting delegates were entertained at various receptions, banquets and dances by their William and Mary hosts. The enthusiastic response to this year's tournament was proof of its ever-increasing popularity.

The Intercollegiate Debate Council at William and Mary fosters an interest among students in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and debating. Debating is the only college activity which brings students together in direct competition on an academic level.

Each year, William and Mary debators travel about 10,000 miles to more than a dozen tournaments alternating among thirty colleges. The schools visited this year included Wake Forest, University of Virginia, Hampton-Sydney, New York University, Johns Hopkins University, Dartmouth, West Virginia University, Georgetown University, and the University of Kentucky. The debators took first place in the Wake Forest Invitational, November first, and placed second in the Virginia Tau Kappa Alpha Tournament, November twenty-second.

The Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament is sponsored by the Council annually. At the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall February seventh and eighth, the Council served as host to over 150 college students from thirty colleges.

Other activities this year included debate and discussion programs for local community organizations and for radio and television outlets in Richmond and Norfolk. The students also presented several television panels. On February seventh, a public debate was sponsored between two William and Mary debators and two students from the University of Edinburgh. The topic was a humorously treated discussion on the question "Resolved: That the sun has set on the British Empire."

The George Oliver Chapter of Student Education Association, the former Future Teachers of America, is made up of those students of the college who are interested in the teaching profession. Varied programs were presented during the monthly meetings to acquaint the members with different aspects of the field of education. Delegates were also sent to conventions held through the year, and various parties were held.

The programs included a talk on Progressive Education by Dr. Howard Holland of the Education Department; "A Study of the Children of Eastern State" by Mrs. Margaret Hare Smith; a movie, "Not By Chance," on teacher recruiting; and a panel discussion on discipline in the classroom. Displays were put up monthly by the members in the Education Library.

Three delegates were sent from William and Mary to the Virginia Education Association Convention. Three of the delegates sent to the Students Virginia Education Association Convention in Richmond were elected to offices: Lorraine Cox, Recording Secretary; Joyce Hayter, Corresponding Secretary-Treasurer; and Dottie Bird, College Member-at-Large.

Before the Christmas holiday a party was given by the organization for the children of Eastern State Hospital.

Of special interest to the group was an article written by Bobbie Ramsey on the foreign students that she worked with while doing her student teaching. After presenting the article at a meeting, it was submitted to the Virginia Education Association Journal for publication.

Orientation sponsors, both men and women, are selected during the spring of each year from the freshmen and sophomore classes. Because the honor of acquainting the incoming fall freshmen with William and Mary life is a very important calling, sponsors are carefully chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and character.

That group leaders and sponsors would perform this service proficiently, they participated in a four week training program during the spring. Their preparation involved lectures covering all aspects of campus life from scholastic, fraternal organizations, and activities, to personal adjustment. This was followed by a social, so that the all-important spirit of such a group would be maintained.

Sponsors and Group Leaders have had a year-round job. With their groups of about ten "green freshmen" they not only served as guides during Orientation Week, but were tutors, advisors, and perhaps most important of all, respected friends.

Orchesis, the modern dance group at William and Mary, provides a means through which students may further their interest in dance on a more advanced level.

Tryouts were held during a regular weekly meeting in the early part of the first semester. The returning members vote on the particular ability of each candidate, and the girls are invited to join the organization on the basis of one outstanding quality, such as angularity or nimbleness, not on the basis of past dancing experience or knowledge of dancing form.

The first half of the weekly meetings of Orchesis is devoted to a class in which members are taught techniques to better their dancing ability. During the second half of the meeting the members divide into five groups, each group being taught a special dance project by a choreographer. As these dance projects are completed they are performed before the entire organization and, if deemed worthy, are included in the annual Spring Concert.

This year, the theme of the Spirit Concert was "An Evening of Dance, composed of a series of dances. Folk dance and dances from foreign countries were performed as well as interpretative dances.

The members of this organization attend several shows performed by the Richmond Dance Society each year. These shows offer a learning experience as well as an evening of entertainment.

The purpose of this organization is to promote interest and to increase skill in swimming among the women students. Tryouts are held each fall and prospective members must be able to do several strokes and dives. Each candidate is judged and admitted to Mermettes on the basis of her swimming skill.

The members hold weekly meetings throughout the school year in order to plan for their annual Spring Water Show. Much practice and planning goes into this show, with the result being well worth the effort. The theme of this year's show was "The Newspaper." All of the numbers appearing in the show were based upon specific columns contained in a newspaper. Mermettes swam through the comics, sports section, social columns, advertisements and the world news.

A symposium on synchronized swimming held at Longwood College was attended by Mermettes this year. The members benefitted greatly by this activity and hope to be able to attend at least one such symposium in the future.

This year, Dede Sheets and Alice Rannells served as Presidents, Bobbie Engram as Show Director, Clairese Harrison as Secretary, and Bobbie Reams as Treasurer. Miss Marian Stoerker was their advisor.

To encourage high professional standards is the purpose of Kappa Delta Pi, National Honor Society in Education. Twice during the year, education students are elected as members on the basis of scholarship, interest in education and leadership.

The organization spent a busy first semester preparing a questionnaire for the purpose of obtaining a student evaluation of the Education Department. During the second semester, members of the society held personal conferences with the freshmen and sophomores interested in teaching.

The group awards a scholarship twice each year.

The George Wythe Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, the National Honorary Law Fraternity, was established at William and Mary in 1953. Its members are law students with a 3.2 average. This year, the fraternity was especially active. It sponsored a banquet at which officers were initiated, and heard several speakers. Fraternity members also participated in a moot court sponsored by the Student Bar Association. As in the past, Phi Alpha Delta maintained a bookstore for law students and awarded several scholarships to law students.

The aim of the Biology-Medical Club is to help pre-med and biology students to further their interest in these fields outside of the classroom.

Programs of interest to all members are planned. Two of the speakers during the year were Bob Bailey from the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory, and Jim Todd, a student.

Among the varied activities of the Club was a trip to the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory at Gloucester Point in November, and several similar trips in the spring.

BIOLOGY MEDICAL CLUB

The French Club, comprised of those students interested in, or majoring in French, renders a valuable opportunity to its members, to gain a wider knowledge of French culture and customs. At the first meeting a French exchange student spoke, and a "French Bridge" party was held at the second meeting of the Club this year.

The Political Science Club is not restricted to majors in government, but welcomes members from all fields of concentration. Questions concerning international relations, current domestic issues, problems in political philosophy, and the relation of many fields of thought in politics are topics for discussion. Speakers are drawn from both outside the college community and from members of the faculty. This year, several meetings consisted of informal discussion groups held at the homes of various professors, in order that students could discuss, in small groups, problems of particular interest to themselves. The main object of the Political Science Club is to promote a greater interest in political thought among the student body.

The purpose of the Sociology Club is to promote interest in the field of sociology, to further understanding of problems in the field, and to further friendly relations among students and better student-faculty relations.

The Club, which met once a month, had guest speakers and held discussion groups on topics of general interest. Also, worthwhile service projects were performed. The organization is now in its second year of existence and the growth in membership has been quite rewarding.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The John Minor Stetson Mathematics Club has as its purpose to present to all interested students and acquaintance with the fields of mathematics not discussed in the classroom.

Through guest speakers and varied programs, members obtain a clearer insight into job opportunities and mathematics as a whole. One of the highlights of the year was a tour of the N.A.C.A. at Langley Field, Virginia.

This year the membership of the Student Religious Union is composed of two members from every religious group represented on campus. The main purpose of the organization is to show students the need for religious direction in their lives. Also, the Union tries to achieve a better understanding among the different faiths through a closer working relationship.

The important project for the 1957-58 session was the Religion and Lite Week, February ninth through the thirteenth. Dave Roller, Chairman, ably directed the weekly's program which successfully carried out the theme, "The Impact of Heritage and Science on Religion."

The Union also sponsors the Wednesday night services held in the Wren Chapel.

Sunday evenings find the Methodist students and their friends attending the Wesley Foundation. This group provides both intellectual, spiritual, and social stimulation for its members by well-planned programs and activities, which include: inspirational speakers, creative worship programs during the meetings, a series on "Theories of Methodism," Fall and Spring retreats, Coffee Hours in order that the students might become better acquainted with the members of the faculty, and parties for orphans and Dunbar patients. The members grew closer together through these shared activities and worship.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

The Westminster Fellowship is the student religious group which aims to bring the Presbyterian students together for worship and fellowship. Many of their programs this year were on the theme of the ecumenical movement of the church. Several speakers from other colleges discussed that topic with the group.

In December several members attended the World Wide Quadrennial Conference of Presbyterian Youth held in Lexington, Kentucky.

The "Westfel" is also active in social service. Every Sunday afternoon they hold services at Dunbar and at Christmas they gave a party to the children there.

The purpose of this recently formed organization is to unite student members of the Lutheran Church.

Two of the organization's highlighting activities this year were the fall picnic held to welcome the freshmen, and the Thanksgiving dinner and service with the Baptist Student Union.

This group also sponsors a Tuesday afternoon Bible Class, open to students of all denominations, and discussion meetings on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Canterbury Club hopes to gain a better understanding of the Christian world through the study of the Episcopal Faith.

Every Sunday at six o'clock there was a supper and program. Other activities included daily services at Wren Chapel, services at Eastern State Hospital, and monthly communion and breakfast.

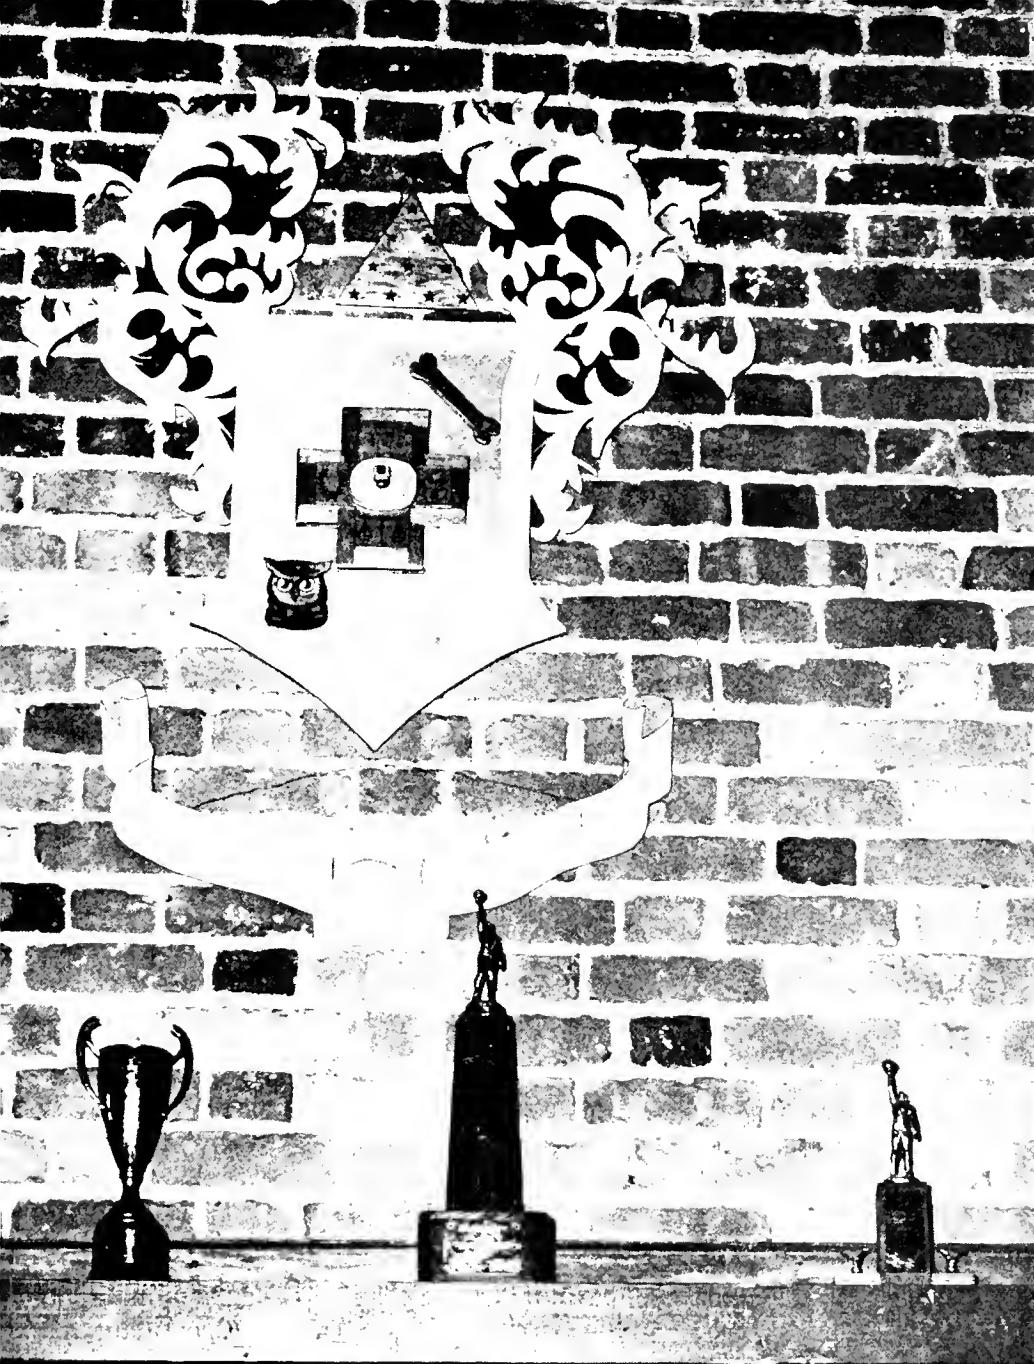

An outstanding event was the weekly college discussion group. Held Wednesday afternoon, it had Mr. C. Lewis of Bruton Parish as its leader.

When it is realized that one-half of the William and Mary student body demonstrated membership, the fraternity system becomes an important force and an influential body on campus. As a social organization, the Greek-letters stimulated and developed friendships, many of them to be life-long. By promoting high scholarship and a competitive spirit, achievement and citizenship were encouraged. The President's Scholarship Cups, intramural athletics, fraternity-sorority open houses, the Greek Sing, all promoted inter-fraternity spirit and developed a oneness within the system. Rush, initiation, banquets, serenades, picnics, dances—Fraternity Row, Sorority Court—the Lodge, the House—my brothers, my sisters.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of the president and a second representative from each of the ten fraternities on campus. The officers of the Council, except for the vice-president who must be chosen from one of the ten fraternity presidents, are elected from these second representatives for a term of one year.

The purposes of the Council are to encourage interest in scholarship and athletics and to promote cordial relationships among the fraternities. This year the Council has been working to attain better relations between the college and the town.

The IFC is responsible for establishing rules governing both general fraternity activities and rushing. The rushing rules cover the dates of rushing, formal rushing regulations, eligibility, pledging, and initiation.

This year the Council sponsored the annual Block Party and a dinner with the Alumni Fraternity Council. In an attempt to raise the academic averages of the fraternities, the IFC offered a scholarship cup to the pledge class with the highest average.

The officers were: Don Dew, President; Hunter Benedict, Vice-President; Duane Mink, Treasurer; Junius Camp, Secretary.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The Pan-Hellenic Council is composed of representatives from each of the nine sororities on campus who discuss various questions pertaining to sorority life. The Pan-Hellenic Council is busiest during the fall and spring rushing periods, for it regulates and determines the many parties given, and also concerns itself with the numerous questions involved with rushees and sororities alike. Soon after fall rushing is over, the Council meets to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the rushing program and each representative, after discussing the subject with her respective sorority, submits her suggestions to the Council on the planning and organization of the following year's rush program. The Council then votes on the various suggestions and a decision is made. The sororities then begin planning and organizing their next year's program in accordance with the Council's decision. The Council, in addition to rushing, awards a yearly scholarship to a deserving woman, edits and publishes sorority information in its pamphlet "Greek Notes," and sponsors the spring pledge skits. The Pan-Hellenic Council is represented nationally by the National Pan-Hellenic Conference which consists of representatives of all national sororities. The primary purpose of the National Pan-Hellenic Conference is to promote scholarship and a better relationship between all sororities.

With three new coaches, including a new Athletic Director, to dispel the gloom of a dismal record on most fronts the year before, Reservation athletics took on a new look in '57-'58. In every sport in which William and Mary teams participated, their previous records were improved upon. The football team performed such feats as upsetting North Carolina State, a team then ranked tenth in the nation. The Cross Country team was undefeated and the basketball team made the finals in the Southern Conference tournament.

WILLIAM AND

Head football Coach and Athletic Director Milt Dreher came to the Reservation late in the Spring of 1957 to assume the duties of the office vacated by Jackie Freeman. Without the benefit of a Spring practice session, and with a team that had won only one game in the previous two years, Coach Dreher assembled a squad which turned in a four won and six lost record against major opposition.

Dreher came to the Reservation from the University of Richmond where he had served as a backfield coach. Previous to that time he had coached teams at Craddock High School, Hopewell High, and Warwick. Dreher is a 1949 graduate of Randolph-Macon, where he was considered one of the best fullbacks in the state during his undergraduate days.

Bill Chambers, the new basketball coach, is a former William and Mary all-time great in that sport. A member of the class of 1953, "the Quiet Man" was a Helms All-American selection in 1952-53 and scored 1,437 points during his three years on the Indian hoop squad. Hailing from Lynchburg, he won All-State honors at E. G. Glass High School during his pre-college days. After graduation, Chambers went to Newport News, where he twice produced state championship basketball teams while his squads won 67 games and lost only eight. Chambers very nearly won his third straight state championship this season on the Reservation, but missed in a three overtime contest with Richmond.

Filling the post vacated by Eric Tipton was Ed Derringe, former head football coach at Granby High School in Norfolk. There he coached his team to the state championship in 1953 with a 10-0 record. His overall coaching record since 1950 was 35-30-4. A native of Pennsylvania, Derringe graduated from Georgetown University. Prior to becoming head football coach at Granby he coached another school team. His football background was further completed by playing one year with Scranton in the old American Football League and held a post as the line coach for Norfolk Shamrocks in the now non-existent Dixie League.

Those returning for another year of service in William and Mary athletics were William S. "Pappy" Gooch, who has been with the school for 30 years, Harry Groves whose track teams last year turned in virtually unmarred records, Joe Mark, Bob Gill, and Dudley Jensen. Serving in the capacity of Athletic Publicity Director after the graduation of Pete Kalison last spring, was Frank Simmons.

MARY ATHLETIC DEPT.

"Yea-a Indians' Fight!" Giving everything they have at all William and Mary football and basketball games, the cheerleaders see to it that our teams can really hear this war cry.

The desire to intensify the fans' spirit and loyalty for their teams is behind the whole purpose of cheerleading. In the past the job of fulfilling this goal has been difficult to meet. However, this year has shown a marked change in our enthusiasm, for our teams have given us a lot to cheer about.

The biggest thrill of the football season was the stunning upset that the Indians handed N.C. State. The students turned out en masse for a spontaneous victory rally to greet the "conquering heroes" in front of Blow Gym. The following week one of the best pep rallies ever conducted at William and Mary preceded the Homecoming game. The cheerleaders were almost unnecessary, for the spirit was at a peak, and the cheering was wildly enthusiastic. During a promising basketball season the students proved equally as strong in the pep department.

Much of this continuous success can be attributed to the efficient organization lent to the squad by Head Cheerleader Bruiser Camp. The regular squad was composed of Pat Megale, Anne Brown, Nancy Moore, and Judy Dickerson; Les Suggs, Art Perry, Tom Hamilton and Warren Joblin, Penny West and Ellen Wray were alternates; and Pat King, Ann Shoosmith, and Karen Thomas were our peppy "Indians."

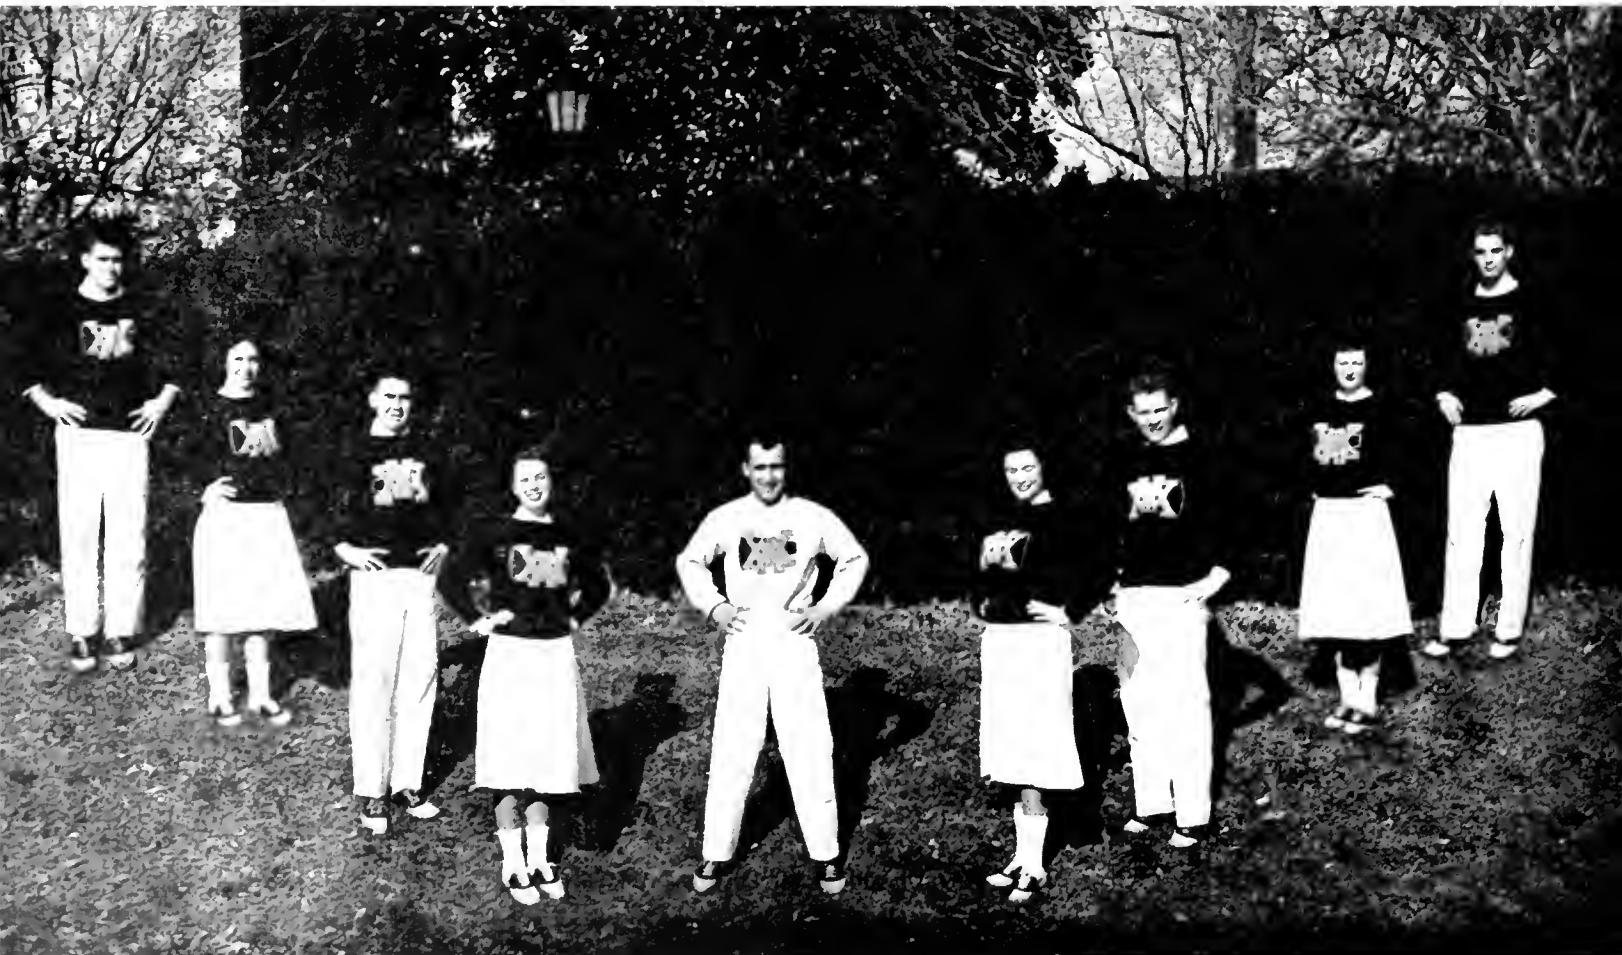

Unfortunately, there has not been invented yet a single uniform for 90° heat, 20° cold, and pouring rain. But this made no difference to the cheerleaders as they helped the crowds spur their teams on to victory!

Varsity club officers Sid Mook, Toby Perry, and Bob Hardage confer over plans for their annual selection of a basketball queen.

The Varsity Club, founded in 1914, includes in its membership boys who have won their varsity letters in any inter-collegiate sport which is college-sanctioned. In recent years the club has expanded greatly, and is now among the more important organizations at William and Mary. Every team sport is represented by membership in the club.

The purpose of the Varsity Club is to further the interests of athletics, to promote sportsman-like conduct on and off the campus, and to encourage intramural athletics in the College. Bob Hardage ably led the group in its aim during the 1957-58 session. Sid Mook served as Secretary, and Toby Perry, as Treasurer.

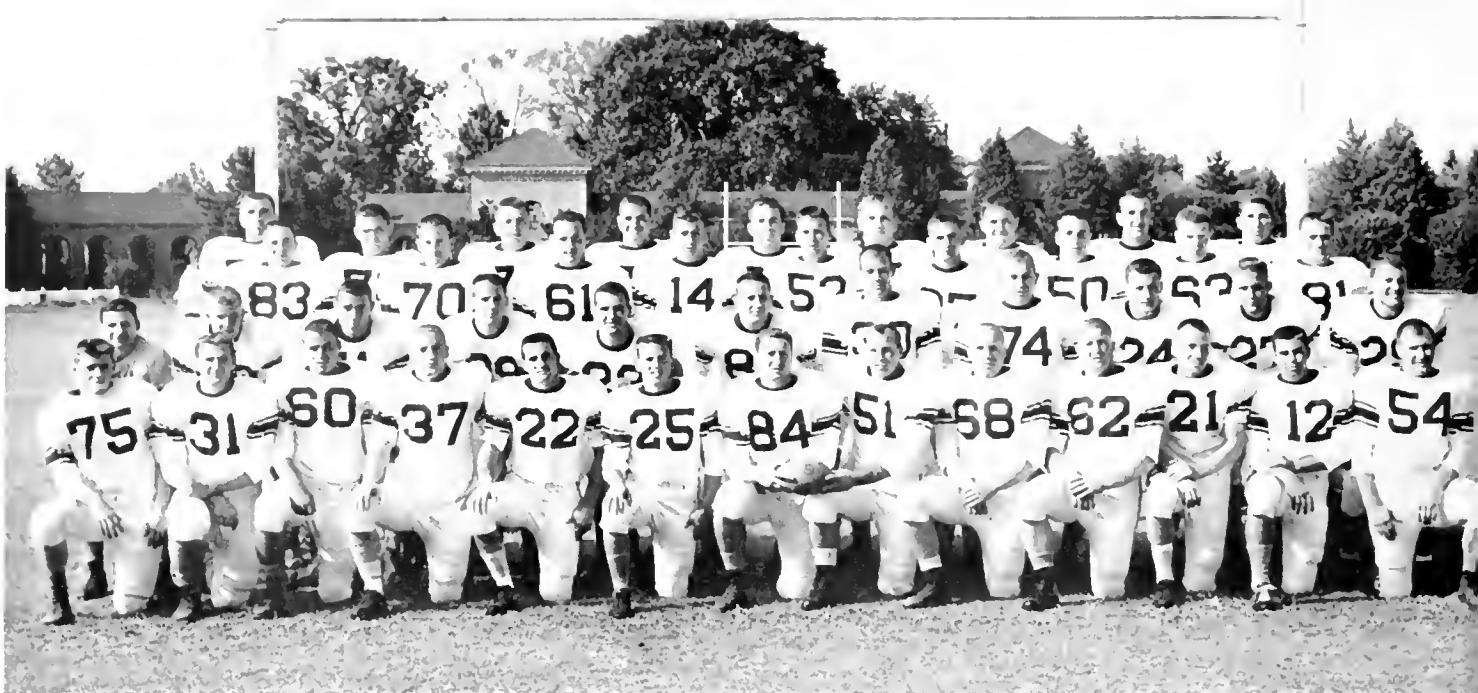

During basketball season the Varsity Club was humming with activity. The annual selection of a basketball queen and a basketball dance were among this season's events. After-game parties, attended by both club members and alumni, were numerous. Another enjoyable event of the Varsity Club was its spring beach party at Yorktown.

It is the desire of the Club's members that a room be obtained for the exclusive use of their organization. The room, which would be used for meeting and recreational purposes, should be obtained in the near future.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

With athletic director Milt Dreher in his freshman year at the helm of the Big Green, the Indians began to realize some of their potential in turning out a four won and six lost record for the season. Opening against the Colonials of George Washington, the Tribe, unsure of its new offense and waiting for the break that never came, absorbed a 7-0 defeat. Moving north for their next encounter, the Braves took on the best team that Navy had produced in many years, a team that went on to win the Lambert Trophy and defeat Rice in a post-season bowl game. After putting up a valiant effort in the first half, the Tribe fell apart in the second half. When the final gun had sounded, the Indians found themselves on the short end of a 33-7 count. But Coach Dreher's belly series had begun to click in that game, and the next weekend, back on the Reservation, the Braves ended a sixteen-game losing streak which stretched back over two seasons when they dumped the highly rated Gobblers from Virginia Tech, 13-7. The next Saturday the Tribe, full of new found confidence, again traveled north, this time to College Park, Pennsylvania, where they were to appear in Penn State's homecoming game. The stunned crowd watched the determined Tribe grind out a 13-7 lead in the third quarter, but the Nittany Lions dominated the closing minutes by scoring twice to eke out a 21-13 win. The Indians came home again for the following weekend when they met VMI on the Cary Stadium field. The Keydets, vastly underrated and functioning more on spirit than on skill, held on to their one point lead in the closing minutes to notch up the Tribe along the route to their first undefeated season in many years and the Southern Conference championship. In what was perhaps the worst showing of the season, the Indians fell to West Virginia the next Saturday, 10-0. The Citadel put up a valiant fourth quarter fight, but fell before the now eager Tribe, 14-12. Still on the road the next week, the Braves pulled off the upset of the year in stopping North Carolina State, then ranked number ten in the nation, by a 7-6 count. Rutgers was crushed in the Tribe's homecoming effort 38-7, but the annual Thanksgiving Day game in Richmond, the last appearance of the season for the Indians, ended in a 12-7 loss.

An unidentified Tribe defender puts the clamps on Mike Sommer, fleet Colonial back, early in the Indian's first game of the season.

Charlie Sidwell, pre-season All-America choice, who later in the season quit the team, penetrates deep into enemy territory in the closing minutes of the contest. The host of George Washington defenders closing in were able to keep the Tribe offensive contained all afternoon.

Before 8,000 fans, sweltering in the 90 degree heat of the September afternoon, Coach Milt Dreher and his Tribe made their '57 debut in Cary Stadium playing host to the Colonials of George Washington. Mike Sommer's fifteen yard scamper around right end in the third quarter provided the Colonials with the margin of victory as they eked out a seven point win over the Indians.

Coach Dreher had his Braves playing a primarily defensive game and waiting for the breaks to provide scoring opportunities. When a break did come midway through the fourth quarter, a Bob Hardage to Charlie Sidwell scoring pass was nullified by a holding penalty. The Indians failed to get their first first down until the fading minutes of the third quarter, leaving the Colonials with a wide statistical margin of 262-133 yards total offensive.

Five Colonial drives were halted within reach of the end zone by the Indians who gave up yardage freely between the twenty yard lines throughout the afternoon. By way of contrast, the George Washington eleven ran eighty plays from scrimmage, while the Indians ran only forty-two, thirty of which came in the latter portion of the second half.

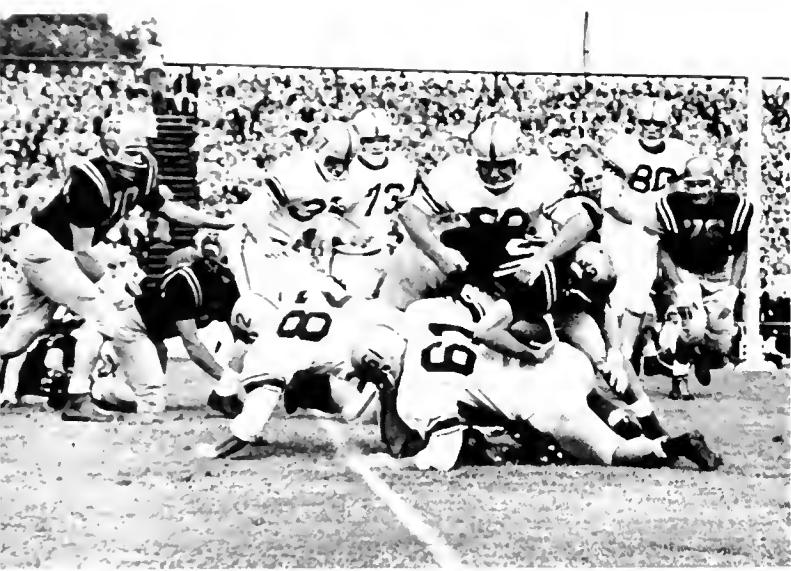

While the Tribe waited, the breaks seemed to go to the Colonials with profusion. The first of these came early in the game when Jack Yohe intercepted a Looney aerial on his own forty and scampered all the way down the sidelines to the GW ten only to have the play called back because of a pass interference ruling.

The second of these incidents occurred shortly before the end of the first half when Marion Hoar intercepted Dave Edmond's pass on the Indian 36 yard line. Once again the Tribe suffered when Jay Sanner fumbled on the Indian 20 and the Colonials recovered. After holding the GW squad to no gain, the Tribe began what looked like a touchdown drive only to lose the ball at midfield on another fumble.

NAVY

The Braves' second loss of the season, and their fifteenth consecutive appearance without a win, came in Annapolis, Maryland. After effectively containing the Middies during the first half of the game, the Tribe gave up three touchdowns after the intermission to the Lambert Trophy winners. Playing in Navy's homecoming game and the last game to be held in Thompson Stadium, the Indians began to show signs of better things to come in absorbing the 33-6 defeat.

The Indians scored impressively early in the second period on a five play, 74 yard drive which was culminated by Dave Edmonds' fourth down one yard dive for the touchdown. The scoring play had been set up by a 51 yard run by halfback Charlie Sidwell who started out to pass, reversed his field and eluded three Navy tacklers before being hauled down from behind by All-American Ned Oldham at the five yard line. Edmonds' score closed the Middies' margin to one point, but Navy's fancy double-lateral touchdown put them out of reach of the faltering Tribe.

The Midshipmen took a wide statistical margin as they gained 394 yards rushing and 166 through the air to collect 22 first downs. The Braves, on the other hand, were able to gain only 155 yards on the ground and completed no passes during the afternoon. Coach Brewer's belly series did, however, show it's first signs of coming to life in the contest.

Fullback Jay Sanner is stopped inches short of the goal during the first half of the Navy contest. On the next play, Dave Edmonds slipped over for the lone Tribe TD of the afternoon.

VIRGINIA TECH

The long awaited moment of triumph came for Milt Brewer's Tribe in their third outing of the '57 season when they upset the highly favored Gobblers of Virginia Tech by a 13-7 count. The Techmen, who had been ranked along with West Virginia by the pre-season guessers, found the Braves' steadily improving offense to be too much on the rain soaked Cary Stadium field.

William and Mary's winless streak, which extended back through 16 games by that time, was finally ended. The last victory for the Tribe had been during the '55 season when they stopped VMI on the home field by a 21-13 score. Between the two wins lay 14 losses and two ties.

Virginia Tech was spared the humility of a shutout when a sophomore sub, Alger Pugh scored from 20 yards out on a twisting, turning romp through the left side of the Tribe defense. The Braves' scores came on drives of 41 and 84 yards which were climaxed by Co-Captain Larry Peccatiello and halfback Charlie Sidwell slipping over the goal line.

The Indians ran a total of 72 plays from scrimmage for 147 yards on the ground and 85 in the air as their offense finally began to show some of the spark it had lacked in the past games. The Tribe picked up 15 first downs compared to 13 for the Gobblers who actually held a statistical advantage of 268 yards to 232 yards total offense. Five recovered fumbles and two interceptions, however, paved the way for the Indians to the first conquest.

PENN STATE

Coach Milt Dreher and his Tribe headed north to University Park, Pennsylvania for their fourth game of the season in which they met the highly rated Nittany Lions of Penn State. Plagued by illness and injuries the red-hot Braves, fresh from their upset win over Virginia Tech the week before, looked as though they might do it again when they exploded for two touchdowns in the third quarter to cop the lead in the ball game 13-7. With 29,800 stunned fans looking on, the Lions were forced to stage a tremendous fourth quarter rally in order to claim the ball game, 21-13.

The first big break came for the Tribe in the third quarter when Elliott Schauback recovered a Penn State fumble on the Nittany Lions' own 17 yard line. From there it took just four plays for the Tribe to score as Charlie Sidwell ripped off 14 yards on first down, Dave Edmonds and Mike Chunta combined for two, and Tom Secules sneaked across from one yard out. Sidwell's conversion attempt was wide, leaving the Lions with a 7-6 advantage. But the next time the Braves got their hands on the ball they again scored, this time going 46 yards in 13 plays. The pay-off was Jay Sanner's two yard leap over right tackle. Sanner then promptly added the conversion to give William and Mary a brief 13-7 advantage. The not to be denied Lions, however, were not as stunned as the mute homecoming crowd in the stands, and quickly retaliated with two touchdowns of their own to set the final score at 21-13.

The first half highlight for William and Mary fans came when Lloyd Hicks punted a booming kick from his own 23 yard line over the heads of the Penn State safety men and finally rolled dead on the Lion's 19 yard line. After the game, Penn State's Coach, Rip Engle was moved to comment, "William and Mary is a far better team than it has been rated."

VMI	14

In what was later to be called "the wildest ten minutes of the William and Mary 1957 grid season," the Indians dropped their third home game of the year to a battling Keydet squad, 14-13. With a first down on the two yard line, twenty-five seconds of playing time remaining in the game, and down by only one point, the Tribe fumbled away its chances to stop the team which was to go through the season undefeated and later become the Southern Conference champs.

In the contest the Braves put on an offensive show which was to be second only to the Rutgers performance some weeks later on the same Cary Stadium field. With nine Indian backs packing the mail on 66 plays during the course of the game, a grand total of 332 yards was accumulated for 20 first downs. The Keydets, who did a better job of capitalizing on breaks during the contest, were able to secure only 211 yards for 15 first downs.

With four and a half minutes remaining in the first half, the Keydets drew first blood when Sam Woolwine's three yard spurt up the middle capped an 80 yard drive which had begun 19 plays earlier. The Tribe came roaring back with one of its own with Lennie "Boom-Boom" Rubal slipping off tackle into paydirt on a second and one situation to make the score at halftime 7-6 in favor of the Keydets.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, Mike Chunta went off tackle for an Indian touchdown. The second time the Keydets got the ball they drove to the W&M three before Bill Rush recovered a Johnston fumble. On the next play, however, Dave Edmonds' fumble was recovered by VMI to set up the winning touchdown.

An unidentified VMI defender moves up to hit Mike Chunta in the final seconds of the contest. Chunta fumbled and the Keydets recovered to stall the Braves' bid for a game winning touchdown. Also visible in the picture are Bob Hardage (12) and Mike Lashley (78).

WEST VIRGINIA	19

Floundering after their unexpected and disappointing loss to VMI the weekend before, the Indians traveled to Morgantown, West Virginia to meet the Mountaineers, then top contenders for the Conference crown. The game featured, in the words of one sports writer, "a disappointing assortment of lousy officiating, fumbles, bobbles, dropped passes, poor blocking, half tackling, and unnecessary roughness on both sides." Before the final gun had sounded with the Mountaineers leading 19-0, they had been penalized a total of 118 yards while the Braves had been set back 128 yards in the same manner.

Twelve of the Tribe backs could gather only a total of 46 yards in the contest while the Mountaineers were combining for 311 yards.

Scoring first in the second quarter after recovering Charlie Sidwell's fumble on the William and Mary 35, the West Virginia eleven added two more in the third period on drives of 55 and 59 yards to complete the scoring for the afternoon. The Tribe's only opportunity came in the second period when they recovered a fumble on the WVa 44. In three plays the ball had been moved to the 20, and on fourth down situation Jack Yohe was piled up one yard short of the first down at the Mountaineer's 11 yard line.

In what Coach Brewer was moved to term the Tribe's "worst effort up to that time," the Indians' had no completions in five attempts, had one pass intercepted, and lost two of five fumbles. The Braves were forced to punt on eight occasions during the course of the game for an average of 38 yards per kick. Dave Edmonds, Bob Hardage, Tom Secules, and Bob Stov all finished the afternoon with negative rushing figures.

THE CITADEL	12

Traveling to Charleston, South Carolina for their second road game in succession, the Tribe was able to come from behind in the fourth quarter to win by a two point 14-12 margin before 12,000 howling Citadel fans.

The decisive touchdown came midway through the final period culminating a 33 yard drive which began when Co-Captain Larry Peccatiello intercepted a Dick Guerri flat pass. With right half Charlie Sidwell acting as a decoy, Jack Yohe and Jay Sanner combined in four plays to give the Tribe a first and ten on the Bulldogs' 21. In three plays there was a net loss of one yard before Bob Hardage, subbing for injured Tom Secules, tossed to Peccatiello who got to the four before being stopped. On Yohe's second attempt he cashed in to give the Tribe its second victory of the season.

The Indians' first touchdown of the game came in the fading minutes of the first quarter when again it was Bob Hardage contributing heavily in the 90 yard march which consumed 16 plays. Hardage's first conversion attempt as well as his second, was successful.

The Citadel's two touchdowns came in rapid succession the first two times they obtained possession of the ball in the second half of the contest. The first covered 63 yards in 11 plays, but the all-important conversion attempt was blocked by Mike Lashley. The second came minutes later after the Tribe had been forced to punt. Beginning on their own 43, the Bulldogs struck with rapid-fire succession for first downs to the W&M six before Barry Thomas skirted right end for the score. This time it was Dave Edmonds who blocked the conversion attempt.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE

The upset of the year occurred on the Saturday afternoon following the Citadel game when Coach Dreher took his Indians out to do battle with the team which was then ranked number ten in the nation. A last period touchdown and the following conversion by Bob Hardage combined to give the Tribe its third and most impressive win of the season in the shocker over NCS, 7-6.

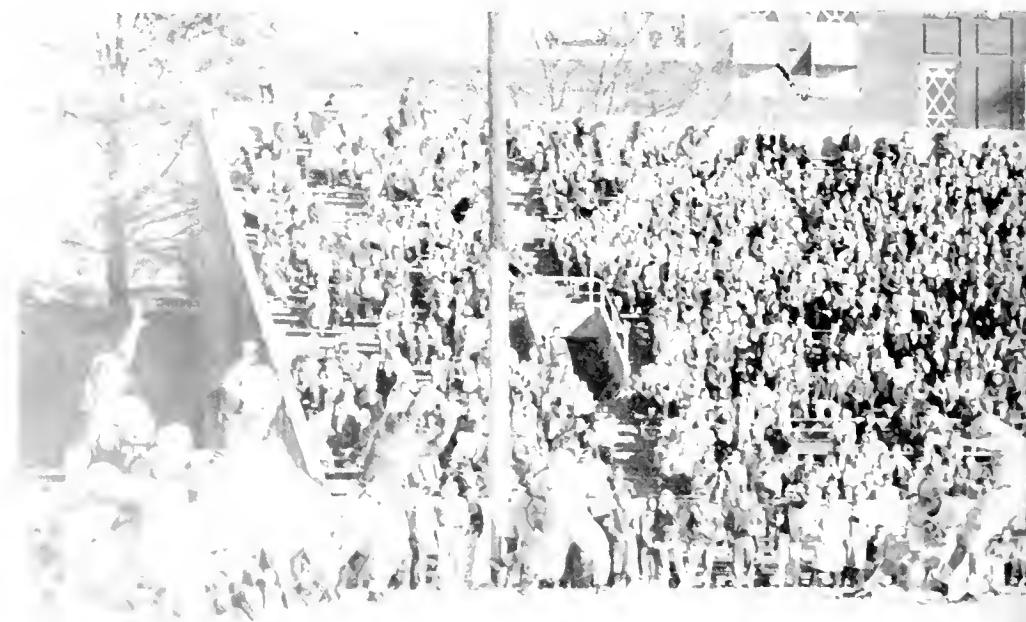

State, whose pre-game expectations in their homecoming encounter with the Tribe hardly included a loss, punched over for its lone touchdown of the afternoon on their second play from scrimmage. Don Hafer sprinted 69 yards up the middle from his own 30 before being stopped at the one by Jack Yohe. The crushing tackle jarred the ball loose from Hafer's hands and it bounced into the end zone where Dick Christy pounced on it. Dick Hunter's fatal attempt for the point after was unsuccessful.

Twice during the contest the Braves struck deep into Wolf-pack territory without scoring before the fourth quarter drive. Jack Yohe returned a punt to the 33, and from there it took the Indians six plays to go the remaining 67 yards for the score. Dave "Splinter" Edmonds capped it for the Tribe with a two yard plunge for the touchdown.

The turning point of the contest came in the middle of the second quarter when the determined Indians halted a Wolf-pack drive inches short of the end zone.

When Dreher and his team arrived back on the Reservation hours later, they were welcomed by a crowd of over 500 students at a bonfire celebration in front of Blow Gym. Commented Dreher, "It was a team effort all the way."

RUTGERS

The Queensmen from Rutgers strode onto the Reservation along with their highly touted tailback, Billy Austin, who had already gained more yards than the entire Tribe offensively, to do battle before a rain soaked homecoming crowd of 8,500. Later the crumpled Knights left, their famous back held to a mere 39 yards in 15 attempts, bowled over by the rampaging Tribe, 38-7.

During the afternoon, the Indians scored almost at will as three of their twelve backs combined for a total of 208 yards while the other nine added 224. The passers too found the mark for the first time, completing eight of 16 for 158 markers and a grand total of 432 yards offensively for the Tribe.

The Indians scored first on a two yard dive off tackle by Dave Edmonds with 2:45 left in the first quarter, culminating a drive that had begun fifteen plays and 72 yards earlier. Numbers two and three came in the second quarter with three following the intermission. The final Brave tally of the contest came with less than two minutes remaining in the game when Jim Perach, a freshman, rambled 20 yards through the right side of the leaky Rutgers line on his first play of collegiate competition. Another freshman, Bob Stoy, in the quarterback position during most of the second half of the contest, guided the Indians to two touchdowns with a masterful passing arm that proved to be almost too much for the Tribe ends.

In their fourth win of the season, the Indians set a new record with 24 first downs and scored more points than they had since their 1952 meeting with North Carolina State which they won by a score of 41-7. The Queensmen, on the other hand, were limited to 12 first downs, two of which came on penalties, two on rushing, and eight through the air. The confused Knights began throwing desperation passes midway through the third period of the contest.

On a cold, wet, muddy Thanksgiving afternoon in Richmond's City Stadium, the Braves closed out their season with a loss to an inspired Spider eleven, 12-7. Reminiscent of the six point defeat of the season before, the margin of victory was Mickey Marivkov's 71 yard punt return in the third period which provided the winning edge for the Spiders.

The Indians were severely outplayed by the hepped up Richmond squad throughout the first half of the game and were unable to penetrate beyond the 15 yard line until the fourth quarter. In that period the Tribe moved 98 yards in eight plays to score their lone touchdown of the afternoon in an impressive drive. Highlighting the push was Tom Secules 40 yard pass to John Makarczyk. Secules rolled out around left end a few plays later of a six yard jaunt to paydirt. Bob Hardage's successful conversion attempt completed the scoring for the Tribe with little more than six minutes of playing time remaining in the contest.

Three minutes later the Braves' sophomore standout Mike Lashley recovered a Spider fumble, but Tom Secules fourth down bobble gave the ball back to Richmond. William and Mary again got possession of the ball in the final minute, but was unable to score in three plays.

The Spider's first touchdown came earlier in the game when Lloyd Hicks 33 yard punt from the end zone was returned to the 14. Two plays later Richmond Captain Lew St. Clair picked off a deflected pass in the end zone for the score.

SWIMMING TEAM

The Tankmen of William and Mary completed a tough season with a 4 win, 4 lost record. The team was led by Co-Captains Don Dew and Sid Mook. High scorers for the Mermen were Maurice Tomlinson, a junior finishing his third year on the team, and Dave Kurland, a freshman, who put in an amazing performance.

The Reservation swimmers opened their season in good style by downing Davidson 53-42 at Blow pool. They continued the schedule with a meet against East Carolina College. East Carolina prevailed in the contest, winning 49-36.

Christmas vacation interrupted the schedule, but the team resumed action dropping a meet to V.M.I. on January 8. The Tankmen came back to defeat Virginia 48-38.

The team next traveled to Washington where they trounced Catholic University 57-29. They returned to Blow Gym where they dropped a meet to Washington and Lee 53-42.

The Citadel invaded Blow pool to take the Indians 63-32. The meet with VPI scheduled for February 17 was canceled due to the weather. The Mermen staged a comeback defeating Georgetown 50-34. With a 4-4 record the Tankmen closed the season by taking sixth place in the Southern Conference Meet.

The William and Mary swimmers were under the tutelage of Intramural Director and Swimming Coach Dudley Jensen.

BASKETBALL SEASON

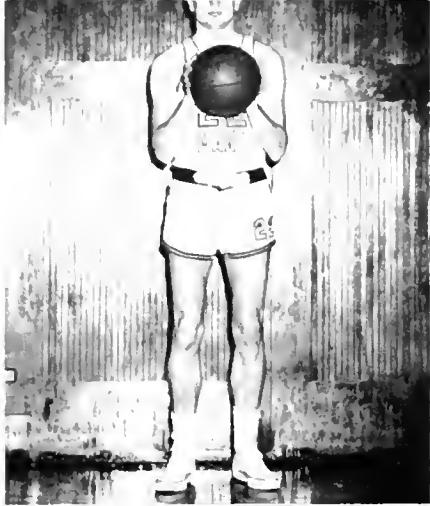

Finishing sixth in the Southern Conference during the regular season with a 6-6 record, Coach Bill Chambers and his first Tribe became the talk of the Conference sports writers when they upset Virginia Tech and George Washington in the SC Tournament only to be turned back in the finals by a nationally ranked West Virginia five, 74-58.

Led by junior Roy Lange who took Tournament scoring honors with 66 points and freshman Jeff Cohen who led all opponents with 38 rebounds, the Indians won acclaim as "the Cinderella team of the Tournament." Lange led the Braves during the regular season with a 20.1 point per game average as he scored 583 tallies to mark the first time that an Indian hooper has broken the 500 barrier since the 1954-55 season when John Mahoney turned the trick.

In his first year as basketball coach on the Reservation Chambers guided his Tribe to a 13-14 overall record—the best turned in by a William and Mary cage team since the 1951-52 season. The Braves also finished high in the Big Six where the title was decided in the last game of the season with Richmond. Before going down to defeat the Indian fought from behind three times to tie the game and set the contest into three overtime periods. Richmond's 81 de-took that one, 79-67, however, and the Braves finished the State loop in second place.

Final team statistics showed that four members of the starting five had averaged in the double figures during the season. In addition to Lange, Don Engelken, Co-captain of the Tribe, had 13.5 points per game, Cohen had 14.0, and freshman Bev Vaughn came in with a 10.8 average. Flashy play-maker and ball-handler Tom Farrington was the only starter under ten points per contest with a 6.4 effort.

After taking an opening night win over the University of Virginia, the Indians suffered a severe set-back when an automobile accident virtually wiped out reserve strength. Injured in the mishap on the way to Philadelphia for a game were Co-Captain Harry Cornell, Ray Varga, Bev Vaughn, Bernie Goldstein, M. Miller, and Jim Osborn. Vaughn, Goldstein, and Cornell rejoined the Tribe two months later to finish out the season. Playing under this handicap, the Braves defeated George Washington, Maury State, Richmond and Davidson before the exam period while losing eight.

With the new semester, however, came a new effort, and after an initial loss at the hands of Furman, the Indians stopped Davidson, Hampden-Sydney, Navy, VMI (twice), Washington and Lee (twice), and Furman, while falling only the league-leading West Virginia and VPI's Gobblers twice.

CROSS COUNTRY

The 1957 Cross Country team was the strongest in the history of the college. The harriers continued their consecutive win streak to eighteen. They won their third straight Southern Conference championship, and their second consecutive Big Six crown.

In the selection for an All-Star Southern Conference team, the Tribe placed four Indians on the eight man team. Bob DeTombe, Tom Quitko, Gil McNair, and Bob Bassett were William and Mary's contributions to the squad.

A host of cross country runners begin the four-mile course in the race with VMI.

According to Coach Harry Groves this was the strongest team yet assembled here on the Reservation. The same team should return for the Fall season of 1958. The bulk of the team's strength were juniors and sophomores: Bob DeTombe, Gil McNair, Bill McCuen, Dave Campana, Bob Bassett, Tom Quitko, Jerry Quandt, and freshman Charlie Rossman.

The dual meet season was begun with a double triumph over the University of Virginia and Duke in a triangular meet which was scored as two dual meets. In cross country the low score wins, and the Duke final was 20-42; the Virginia tally was 26-32.

The following two dual meets were home affairs in which the harriers scalped the University of Richmond and smashed the Virginia Military Institute.

The big victory from the prestige standpoint was the 19-40 lacing that the harriers handed Georgetown University. Georgetown consistently turns out one of the powerhouses in eastern cross country. The final dual meet of the year took the Indians up to Roanoke College for the crucial test. Roanoke had a win streak of 15 dual victories and held the Mason-Dixon Conference Championship as well as the Little Eight title. The mythical state championship was at stake. On a short three mile course, William and Mary triumphed 27-31.

The big man for the Indians individually was Bob DeTombe. A junior from Hackensack, DeTombe has set a record on practically every course he has run. During the regular season he beat Georgetown's Bob Vinton and Roanoke's Howard Meineke for new course records. He won the Big Six and Southern Conference races, setting new records on the courses on which they were run.

Sporting what was perhaps one of the strongest athletic teams on the Reservation in modern history, Coach Harry Groves led his cindermen through five dual meets, the Penn Relays, and the Southern Conference and Big Six meets this year. Last season, his first as Head Track Coach, Groves' outdoor aggregation was undefeated in dual meets and walked away with the State and Conference championships.

Last year's star, Walt Fillman, who scored a total of 184 points during the season, was lost by way of graduation, but virtually the remainder of the '57 squad returned for another year of action. Sophomore Dale Bickert, who was never defeated last year by an opponent but who finished consistently second to Fillman, stepped up to take over the sprinting assignments. Along with him were Warren Joblin, sophomore hurdle expert, and Danny Newland whose specialty was the 440.

Leading the host of distance men coming in from the year's undefeated Cross Country team was Bob "Moose" DeTombe whose best time in the mile previous to this season was 4:31.7. In the middle distances, Bill McCuen and Jim Schuster continued their long established duel for supremacy in the 880-yard run where their best times to date are 1.56.8 and 1.56.1 seconds respectively.

In the field events, Southern Conference high jump champions Bob Storm, Bob Bales, and Dan Walker returned. Storm leads the group with a six foot four and one eighth inch effort being his best performance before the season got under way. Ray Varga also returns to the field events where he throws the javelin and discus. Varga scored 23 points for the Tribe last year as a sophomore.

Among the others returning from last year's team and their scores are Bob Bales, 35 5/6; Dave Campana, 39; Jerry Quandt, 41 1/2; and Al Sherman, 32 1/2. Sixteen other returnees were expected this year who had scored less than twenty points in the campaign last season.

The cindermen opened their schedule with Virginia on the road and met Richmond and VPI, and appeared in the Penn Relays away before returning to the Reservation for the first of their two home meets of the year. In Cary Stadium they played host to VMI and after the two Conference meets, Georgetown.

Outdoor records set last season included Walt Fillman's 9.6 100-yard dash, 21.0 220, and 23.1 effort in the low hurdles; Dan Newland's 49.7 second 440; a 1:56.0 half mile by Bill McCuen; Bob Storm's six foot four and an eighth inch high jump; Lloyd Hicks 136 ft. 8 in. discus toss; and the mile relay team's 3:20.3 effort (composed of Al "Smokey" Sherman, Nick St. George, Danny Newland, and Dale Bickert).

With two members of last year's Big Six championship team absent by way of graduation—Doug Henley who hit over .400 last year and Junior Duff, the '57 leader in R.B.I.'s—the 1958 Braves found themselves in need of strong hitting to back up the powerful returning pitching staff. The nucleus of the hurling staff included Ron Gardner, Bob Brown, and Bill Becker, who compiled 3-1, 4-0, and 1-2 records respectively last year. Also expected to see action were Dennis Murphy, a freshman last year, and freshman Bruce Hobbs.

In addition to the pitching staff, the returning lettermen included first baseman Tom Secules, second baseman Joe Dodd, outfielder Norm Caplan, centerfielder Ed Shine, and shortstop Bob Hardage. Non-lettering returnees were Tommy Martin, a catcher, Pete Stockwell, Dennis Murphy, Dick Columbo, Wane Lowry, and Harry Carl.

Led by Co-Captains Bob Hardage and Ed Shine, the Tribe opened its season with Dartmouth on March 27 on the home diamond. The Indians next renewed their rivalry with Hampden-Sydney whom they had defeated twice in their last meeting three years ago. The Braves then went out on the road to play double headers at Davidson, and Furman, along with single games at Washington and Lee, VPI, and VMI. Their next home encounter was with George Washington's Colonials, the defending Southern Conference champions.

After the GW clash the Tribe entertained VPI on the home field before going out on the road again for battles with Hampden-Sydney and a return engagement with the Colonials. The Indians finished out the season at home, meeting Washington and Lee, VMI, Richmond, the University of Virginia, with the exception of the final game which was played against Richmond's Spiders on the latter's home diamond.

Tied with Richmond for first place in the Big Six at the end of last season, the Tribe's clutch hitter Junior Duff smashed out a 2-run single to give the Braves their first state championship since 1946. The Tribe finished out its season with an overall 11-8 record. In the Southern Conference, the Braves took fourth place with an 8-7 card.

The Indian baseball nine was led by Coach Ed Derringe this year after the resignation of Eric Tipton who took a post at West Point. Derringe, a 1943 graduate of Georgetown University, was formerly the baseball and football mentor at Granby High School in Norfolk, for nine years. In addition to his high school coaching career, Derringe played football in the old American Football League and was a line coach in the now-dead Dixie Football League.

GOLF TEAM

Coached by former William and Mary football team Captain Joe Mark, the Reservation linkmen drove their way through an eleven match schedule before entering the Southern Conference and Big Six tournaments late in the year. The schedule was heavy and included Navy and Dartmouth for the first time. Last year the Indians met Navy in a practice match, but the Midshipmen have never previously appeared on the Tribe log.

Mark counted heavily upon returning lettermen Walt Lawrence a senior and last year's Captain, Ken Rice and Charlie Dudley, both of whom are Sophomores, and returning veteran Jim Baratt. Prior to the first match with the University of Virginia Mark held 72 rounds of qualifying play to determine the top six men.

Last season the Big Green Golf squad finished up the season with a six won and four lost record, the best in many years on the Reservation. The final event of the year for the linksmen was the Big Six tournament in which they finished fifth behind Virginia, Virginia Tech, Washington and Lee, and Virginia Military Institute. Finishing behind the Tribe was the University of Richmond.

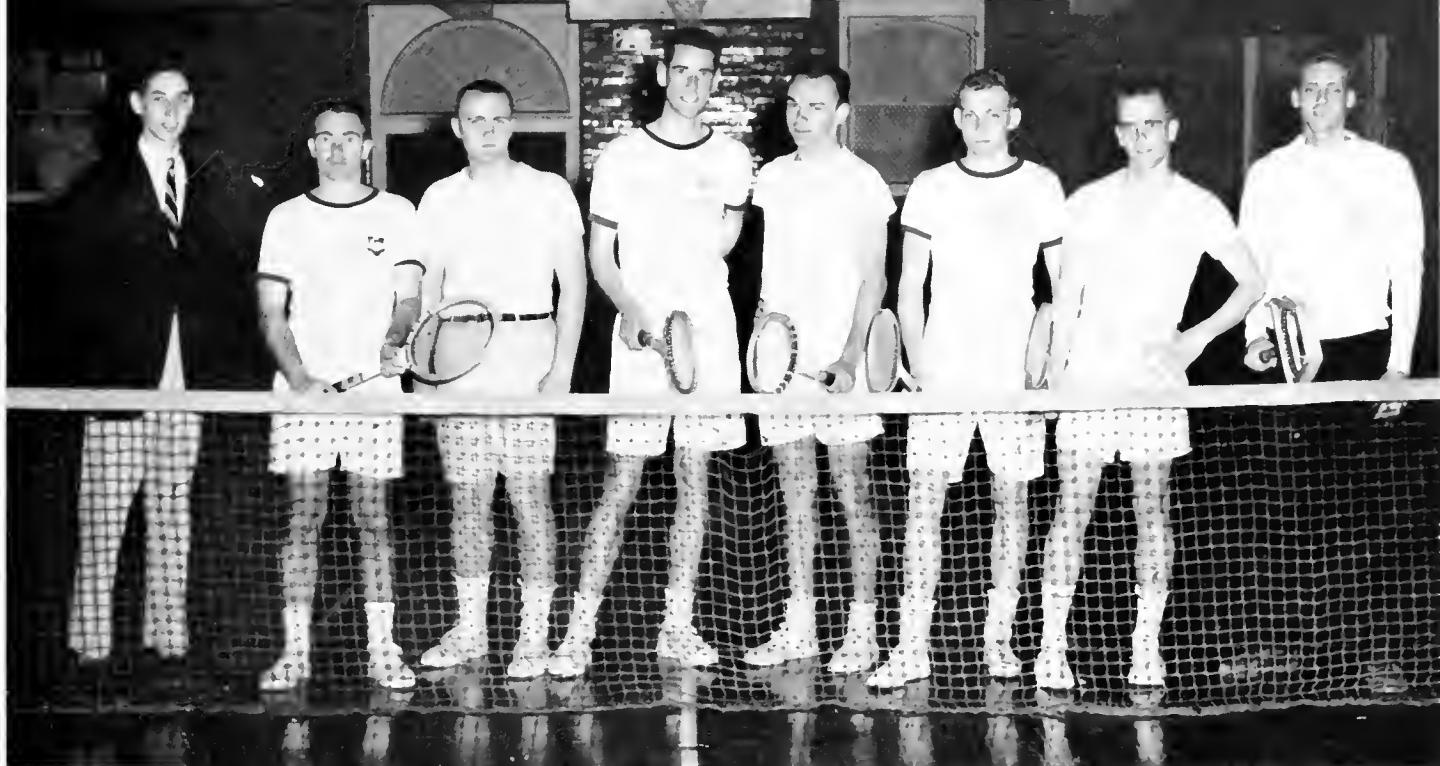

After the opening match with Virginia this year, the Indians met Richmond and Dartmouth on the road before putting on their first home appearance of the season when they met VMI. Beginning with the match with the Keydets, the Indians played a five game home stand including VPI, Navy, Washington and Lee, and West Virginia before going on the road again to meet George Washington and The Citadel. Both the Southern Conference and Big Six tournaments were on the road for the Tribe.

Coach Mark is a graduate of William and Mary (1950) and, in addition to starring on the football team here, played service ball with Fort Eustis. He saw coaching action under "Tex" Warrington at Vero Beach, Florida High School. In addition to coaching the golf team here on the Reservation, Mark is an assistant line coach of the Big Green football aggregation.

Coach Joe Mark confers with Walt Lawrence, captain, in the club house after a round.

TENNIS

Coach Bob Gill, in his second year as tennis coach, led the Tribe Netmen through a 14-event schedule this year. The 1958 aggregation was captained by Toby Perry, who was undefeated in Southern Conference competition last season and who lost only once in overall team appearances. Graduation took number one man Ed Phillips and number three man Tom Swann, but the returning lettermen, Perry, Bob Doughtie, John Peterson, Jeff Nixon, and Mike Heimis were expected to carry the load satisfactorily. Also contending for positions on the team were intramural tennis tournament champion and runner up Ralph Henkle and Ken Kranzberg respectively.

The '58 schedule included only four away matches, while the other fourteen and the Southern Conference Tournament were held here on the Reservation. The season opened with Williams late in March and featured Lafayette, Haverford, Colgate, and Navy in addition to the regular Southern Conference and Big Six foes.

Last year's team went into their last match of the season with Virginia undefeated in State competition and held the lead, 3-2, when the meet was called because of rain. Controversy still rages over whether the Tribe should be considered the winner and hence the sole claimant to the Big Six crown or whether it should be considered no match and the title shared with the Cavaliers who were also undefeated. In the Southern Conference Tournament, the Tribe finished third behind champion George Washington and second place Davidson. The Braves' overall record in regular season play showed eight wins and four losses while the Southern Conference ledger showed a six win and one lost showing.

Coach Gill came to the Reservation last year from Blackstone High School and Maury High School in Norfolk where he served in the capacity of Physical Education Director. Gill replaced Dr. Wayne Kernodle and is a graduate of William and Mary where he also received his Master's degree in 1952.

Late season volleyball action

A point after touchdown was the deciding factor in the fraternity champs, Kappa Alpha, victory over the Comeback Kids, who had won the independent crown with a clean 8-0 slate. Early in the first half, Micky Simpson broke off on a fifty-five yard pass and a few seconds later converted the game-deciding extra point on a pass to Nick St. George. The Comeback Kids retaliated quickly with a scoring drive of their own when Tom Hamilton caught a pass from Harry Carl for the score. The Comeback Kids could not make good their extra point try. There was no scoring in the second half and Kappa Alpha won by a close 7-6 score.

Kappa Sig and Pi K. A. tied for second place and S.A.E. took third place in the fraternity league. In the independent league, Monroe 3rd came in second with a 7-1-1 record.

S.A.E. took this year's intramural swimming meet with Dave Kurland, James Kent, and the Pi K. A. relay team showing some sensational swimming. Pi K. A. came in second in the swim meet.

In horseshoes, Frank Cornell of Sigma Pi ousted Bill Carver's (K. A.) crown in a match that could have gone either way. Barry Hill (Pi K.A.) and Harry Cornell (S.A.E.) wound up in a third place tie.

Nat Withers of Sigma Nu retained his free-throw crown by outshooting John Lyons of Sigma Pi. Both men bagged thirty straight shots before Withers won out in the final round by making 18 for 20 attempts. Dave Edmunds (K.A.) and John Jerehian of S.A.E. tied for third place.

Harry Carl and Harry Cornell take a few practice swings before playing their ping pong match.

INTRAMURALS

Intramural bowling and volleyball terminated before the Christmas holidays with Pi K.A. and Sigma Pi capturing honors respectively.

Placing second behind Pi K.A., who revived its hopes for capturing the Fraternity Trophy by winning the bowling tournament was Phi Tau, S.A.E. finished in third place. K.A., battling for the lead in total fraternity points, finished eighth.

In volleyball Sigma Pi won out over the field for the second year in a row. S.A.E. had a good chance to tie for the lead, but lost its final game to Pi K.A. in a very close match. There was a three-way tie for second: S.A.E., Pi K.A., and Pi Lamb.

K.A.'s Ralph Henkle beat Pi Lamb's Ken Kranzberg in the intramural tennis tournament.

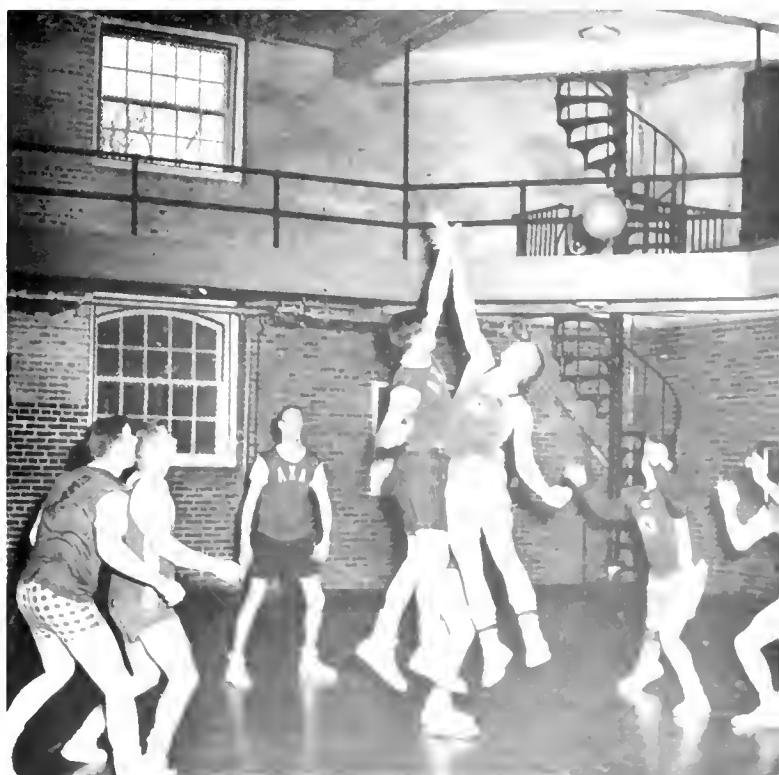

K.A. picked up more points in their attempt to get the intramural trophy when they came up with four winners in the intramural wrestling tournament. The four winners from K.A. were: Edmunds in the 147-pound class, Simpson in the 157-pound class, Grant in the 177-pound class and Schauback in the unlimited class.

Sigma Nu came in second with Grizzard winning the 167-pound class and Kanas in the 191-pound class.

Kappa Sig came in third with Freshman Steve Edwards, who picked up most of his team's points, taking the 137-pound class. Edwards was the only one in the tournament to pin all of his opponents.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Tony Wilson of S.A.E., took the 150-pound class.

This year's basketball crown is up for grabs. Lambda Chi, with a very strong team and led by high scoring Ladd, has a good chance on taking first place. Sigma Nu, who is not only looking for the basketball crown but also the intramural trophy, will be strong in the runnings. Pi K.A. and Kappa Sig, with high scorers Brendel and Topp respectively, will also be troublemakers. Last year's basketball champs, Sigma Pi, will be looking for one of the top positions also.

The handball and ping pong tournaments are slowly approaching the final matches. Sigma Nu is dominating the handball scene with five men in the fourth round play positions and Lenny Rubal in the quarter finals.

S.A.E., Lambda Chi, and Pi Lamb each have two men in the fourth round position. Two of the best contenders for the handball crown will probably meet in the quarter finals. They are Bob Lusk and Larry Peccatiello.

The independents and the faculty are dominating the ping pong tournament thus far. There are three independents and Coach Baird and Chambers in the fourth round play position.

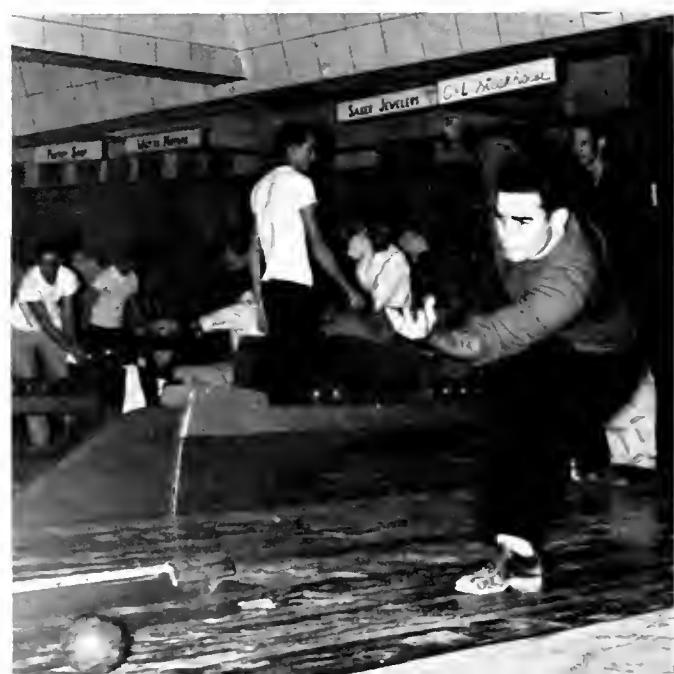

Nat Withers of Sigma Nu, Pete High of Kappa Sig, and Harry Cornell of S.A.E. are in the quarter finals. Cornell is expected to repeat his win of last year.

The current pace-setter for the coveted intramural total point crown is Kappa Alpha. With 498 points to their credit, they hang-on somewhat unsteadily over S.A.E. (489.5) and Pi K.A. (460.5). Their present handicap over Sigma Nu, who always comes on like "Gang Busters" during the second semester, is perhaps an insurmountable 160 points.

K.A. moved into the lead position after the conclusion of wrestling; an event which they won. However, the termination of the spring sports (handball, ping pong, basketball, track, golf, badminton, and softball) could alter their status.

Kappa Sig's Pete High goes for the strike in bowling action.

INDIAN OF THE YEAR

In making the first of what we hope will come to be an annual award, we did not have to look far to find a candidate for the Indian of the Year honor. Bob DeTombe, who has been burning up every track in the South for the last three years was the natural choice. Hailing from Rochelle Park, New Jersey, the Moose is the pride and joy of the Reservation's cross country team as well as the indoor and outdoor track squads.

Bob got off to a fast start in his freshman year, setting new frosh marks in the mile and two mile runs both indoors and outdoors. On the boards his mile record time was 4:37 at the Cow Palace in Raleigh, North Carolina, and his two mile mark was 10:10 set in the fieldhouse at VMI. In the same two events outside his times were 4:26.6 and 9:55.6 respectively.

Going on into his sophomore year, DeTombe was instrumental in leading the harriers to their first cross country championships in the Big Six and Southern Conference. During the course of that season he set two course records, missed another by six seconds, and took five firsts. He was elected to the All-Southern Conference cross country team that year after taking first in the Big Six meet and second in the SC encounter.

During the indoor season the same year, Bob set a two mile record in the VMI fieldhouse and was a member of the mark shattering four-mile relay, two-mile relay, and distance medley relay teams from the Reresrvation. The first two of these marks were set at VMI while the latter came in the Richmond Arena.

The outdoor season saw Bob participating actively in only one meet. Against the University of Virginia, he took a first in the mile with a time of 4:31.7, and finished second in the next event, the two-mile run. "The Moose" was forced to sit out the remainder of the '57 outdoor season with a badly injured ankle.

With the coming of the '57 cross country season, however, Bob was back in shape and led the harriers to their second straight Big Six and Southern Conference championships and an undefeated season. He set and holds course records at West Virginia, Virginia Military Institute, Delaware, Washington and Lee, Roanoke, and here at William and Mary. At the time of this writing the outdoor season had not yet begun, but barring a recurrence of last year's injury, the future looks bright for our Indian of the Year.

The purpose of the Women's Athletic Association of the College of William and Mary is to promote healthful and recreative physical activities for all women students of the College. Upon payment of the athletic fee each woman student automatically becomes a member of the Association.

The WAA consists of three main committees: the Joint Committee, the Intramural Committee, and the Managers Board. The Joint Committee consists of three members of the faculty, appointed by the president of the College; and a senior student as president, a junior student as point recorder, a sophomore student as secretary, elected by the women students. As the main governing body of the Association, this group takes care of all financial matters, changes rules and policies, appoints women to responsible positions, and make awards to those deserving them. The Intramural Committee is made up of the intramural representatives elected by their respective dorms and sororities, and the student head of intramurals appointed by the joint committee. The Managers Board is composed of all the managers of intramural sports and is presided over by the president of the WAA. All women who hold a WAA office must be a classified member of their respective class and be in good academic standing.

President of the Association this year was Ginny Wachob. She worked with Miss Reeder, Head of the Women's Physical Education Department, to develop a well-rounded WAA program, presenting each woman with an opportunity to participate in the sport of her choice.

Taking part in sports, intramural or intercollegiate, earns a woman a certain amount of points. An accumulation of 350, 500, 1,000 points determines eligibility for a special award. There are three classes of intramural competition—Class A, Class B, and Class C. This classification is to be decided by the manager of the respective sport and a member of the faculty. The highest number of points that can be awarded in intramural sports is 50. Neither varsity nor junior varsity players may participate in intramural sports. Varsity team members may receive from 50-75 points. The points received within this range is determined by the coach. Women may also receive points for Red Cross life saving and first aid, and for official ratings, depending upon whether it is national, local, or intramural. All officers receive points, the president being awarded anywhere from 100-200 points.

Both the varsity hockey team and basketball team had good seasons this year. Miss Matz had thirty girls to work with in making up her two hockey teams. The hockey season scheduled five games for the varsity. Two more games followed in the Tidewater Tournament, which calls on eight teams from this area. From these are chosen two teams to represent Tidewater at the Southeastern Tournament. Four girls were given this honor from William and Mary: Jogina Dimanti, Anne Hite, Hil Albiez, and Joanne Robinson. Both tournaments were held at Westhampton in Richmond. Here also the Welsh game was held in which Joanne Robinson, this year's captain, played with the Tidewater I team. Anne Hite came through with the most points scored for the season. One of the greatest achievements of the season was seen in the varsity's first game with the Little Colonels a club team, which they lost 5 to 1, and their second game with them at the Tidewater Tournament, which ended up 1 to 1, the Little Colonels scoring late in the second half. Most of the girls will be returning except for three seniors: Linda Schrader, Marilyn Costas, and Hil Albiez. The junior varsity played three games. Great promise is shown in them because of the large number of freshmen that came out this year.

The Squaws' basketball record greatly improved from last season. Victories were claimed by the Squaws over Westhampton, RPI, and Swarthmore. They bowed to Notre Dame, Sweetbriar, Bridgewater, and Longwood. Their best trip was made up north. On this excursion they played Notre Dame and Swarthmore. Their return home found them with a record of three wins and one loss. Notre Dame took the varsity by only four points, 36 to 32, while the J.V. won 26 to 17. At Swarthmore the varsity hit the winning column with a score of 46 to 39 along with the J.V. who won 35 to 15. The team was capably lead by June Roberts and Judy Fruland. Judy was high scorer for the season with 133 points, while Nancy Grubbs put in an important 80 points to be second high. Next year should see even a better year for the Squaws, for the entire team will return.

LUCY CHRISMAN
Student Head of Intramurals

Fencing, C. Rebman, B. Churchman, P. Griffin, B. Bunn, N. Martin,
P. Whitehurst, R. King.

March comes around and we hear the clash of foils. This year's varsity fencing team had several of their girls returning. Matches were held with Madison College, Mary Washington College, and the International Center of Baltimore. Girls on the squad may be awarded anywhere from 30 to 65 points yearly. The faculty sponsor, Miss Reeder, bases her decision on the time and effort required for fencing and how much a girl gives of herself and her time.

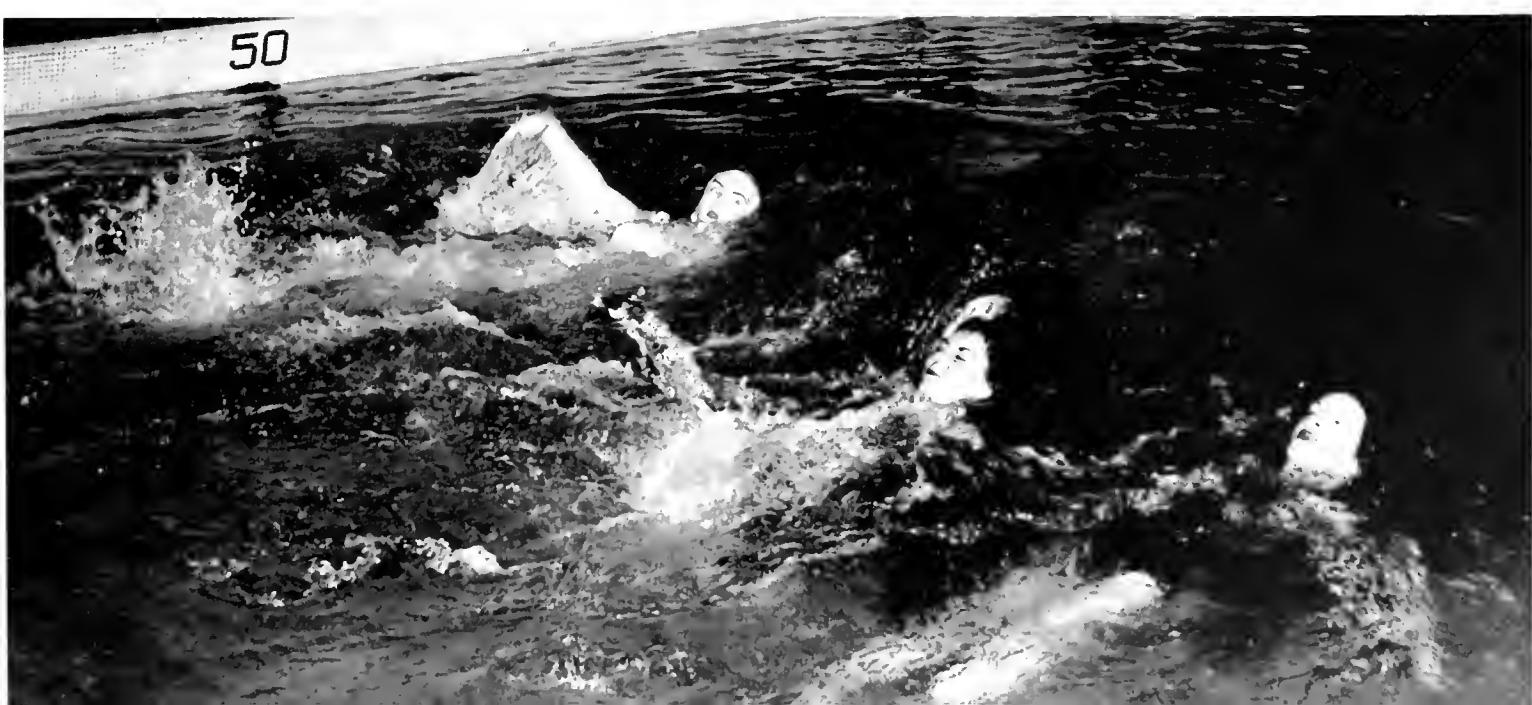

Fencing also is an intramural sport. This year's manager was Carol Rebman. Managers of other intramural sports were as follows: bowling—Nancy Grubbs, hockey—Barney Thurman, ping-pong—Marti Glen, swimming—Geri Knight and Alice Roberts, tennis—Manu Layne, badminton—Pat Fendley, and volleyball—Anne Brown. These managers are appointed by the Joint Committee each year. They have many duties, including the planning and execution of intramurals in their sport, and responsibility for the equipment and schedules covering their individual sport.

The student head of intramurals is appointed by the joint committee upon the recommendation of the faculty head of intramurals. She is also an ex-officio member of the managers board. Lucy Chrisman served in this capacity during the '57-'58 season.

Awards are made in the form of a point monogram for individual points gained. These can be a combination of points in both varsity and intramural competition. For an accumulation of 350 points a girl receives an intramural monogram. For 500 points she receives a gold key. For 1,000 points she receives a green blazer.

Each year a Women's Athletic Association banquet is held near the end of the second semester. All women who have participated in varsity sports, been on one of the three committees, and the new officers for the coming year are invited. Here the new president of the WAA is introduced and point awards are given.

"Glub-glub-gl-gl-g-g-!"

W O M E N ' S

Unknown to many people is the fact that graduate as well as undergraduate students are permitted to participate in intramurals. But a player may represent only one organization in a particular sport. Only active sorority members living in the house may represent the sorority in an intramural sport. These rules are open for change and revision each year. Each team must have its maximum number of participants before an additional team is formed. Forfeits are declared when a team fails to appear within ten minutes, when the contest is not played before the date set as the deadline for the sport, or when use is made of an ineligible player. Judges and referees used cannot be a member of the organization competing.

The sports offered in intramurals are varied enough that each woman can enjoy taking part in at least one. Stress is not put on ability, but on interest, sportsmanship, enjoyment, and relaxation. It makes available a good diversion that doesn't have to take up a great deal of time. Intramurals also offers an opportunity to those interested in officiating.

January 15, 1958

Dear Cynthia:

My selection in the Miss William and Mary contest for 1958 is Betty Edge.

I think she is a knockout.

Sincerely,

Ed Sullivan

WILLIAM AND MARY FRESH

You, the Freshman, you are our Yesterday—our wonderful, happy Yesterday. Before you lie the warm years of college, and friendships unlike those you will ever form. Ahead of you lays the tenseness as you wait for Dr. Fowler to begin his first History lecture—the overpacked room when he gets to "Henry VIII." The Fall will bring Homecoming with its last minute rush to get floats ready for the parade; the overflow of "gung-ho" alumni, the faces which, now unknown, will become familiar as the years progress. When the snow falls, the soft quiet of the darkened campus will hear the echo of your voices as you run to the hill behind Chandler to slide down on anything from tin plates to old table tops. You will walk by the Wren Building one misty night all alone and think, "This is mine—I will never forget." Then, suddenly, Spring will come and the campus will be hung with the scent of magnolias. The laziness will hit you and you will be initiated into the ancient rites of long hours over coffee at Greeks and the warm feel of the bricks against your back as you lean on the wall at Jockey Corner. You'll laugh at the tourists and feel superior because this is really your town, after all. Then, June, and you will leave with smiles, knowing that next year it will be the same—only better.

MAN OF

ODAY

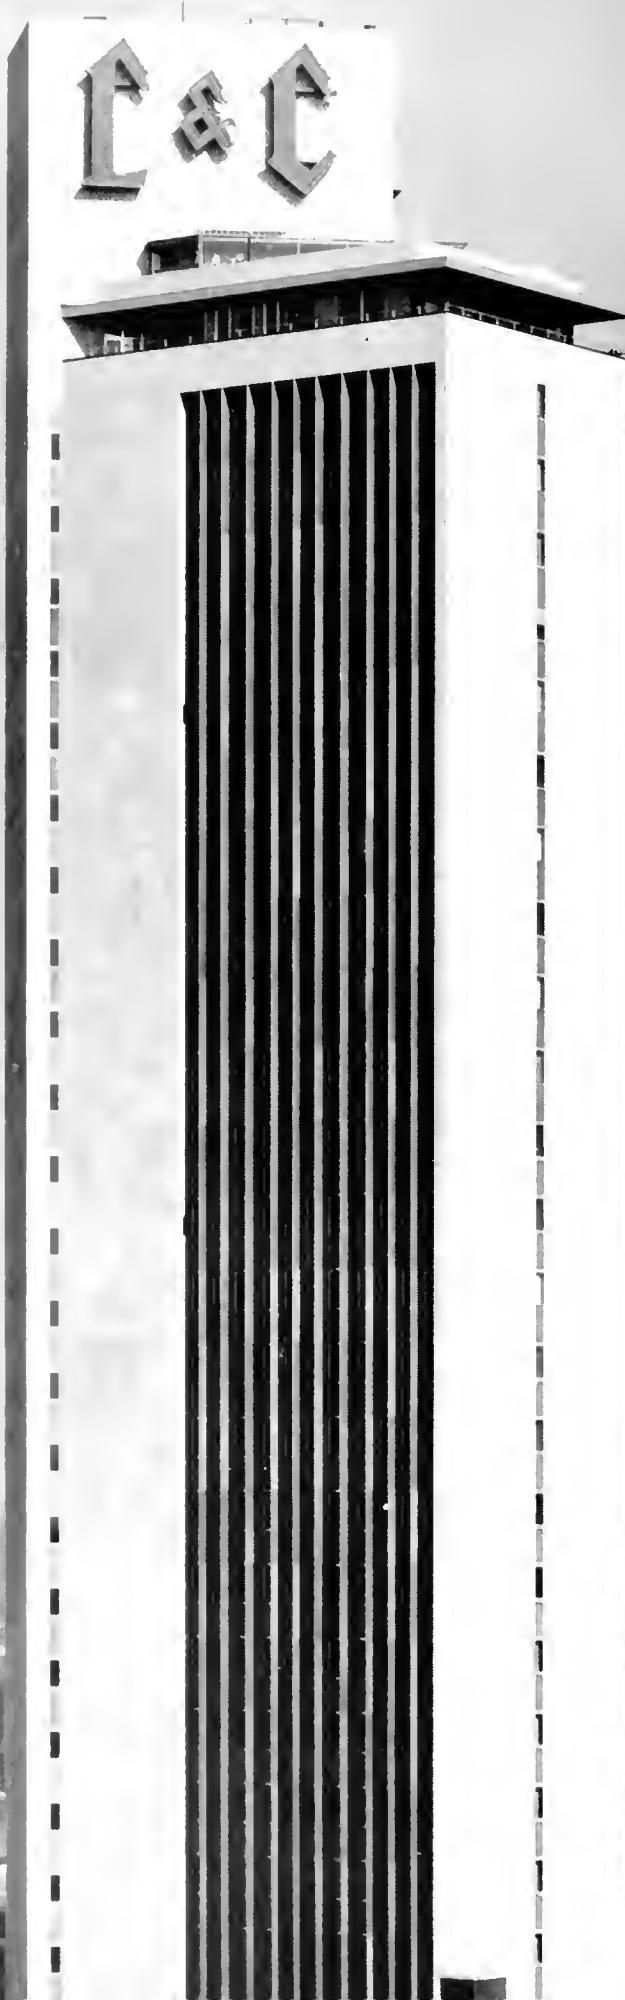

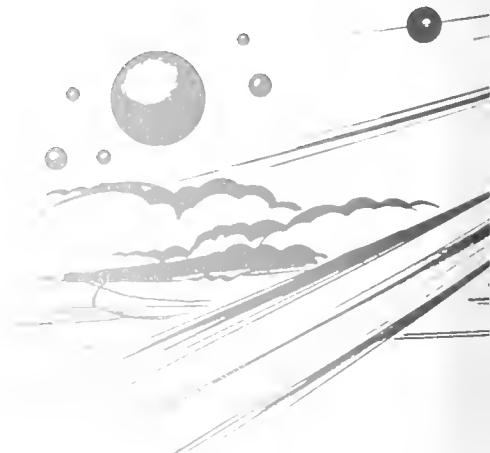

Today, Seniors—this is ours. Today, with its thrill of realizing that you are a "big man on the campus," and the chill at knowing that you have reached the height of your college experience. Suddenly our courses seem more important—they mean our future. Homecoming, our last and the best yet, and the faces—familiar and dear. Will we ever forget the soft music of the carols from sorority court that cold night before Christmas vacation, or the after-date trips to the Colonial for one last beer with the guys? The days pass swiftly, too swiftly, for we are busy. Suddenly it's time for exams and we wonder where all the time went. A new semester dawns and we determine to have a "ball," because it's our last. Now we relax—a girl looks at her engagement ring and sighs, a boy straightens his tie before entering an interview with IBM. The days in Greeks over coffee become longer, more lingering; we look around the table at our friends and think "This is perfect—the way it should always be." Spring comes, and the magnolias seem richer, more pungent than ever. Our "big wheel" days are passing as we train the Juniors to take over our jobs, but we don't mind now. Exams—the "breaks" are longer as we rush to capture the last few minutes of our "togetherness." June—and regrets, for all we never had time to do, for the "good-byes"; but underneath it, the anticipation, the excitement of knowing that ahead lies our future.

A SENIOR

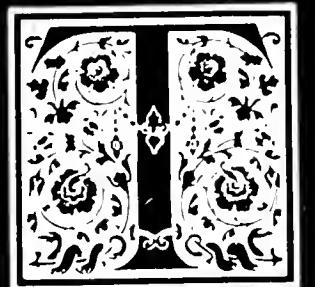

INTO THE

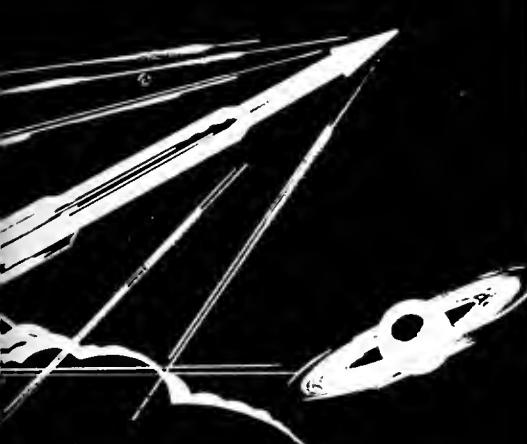

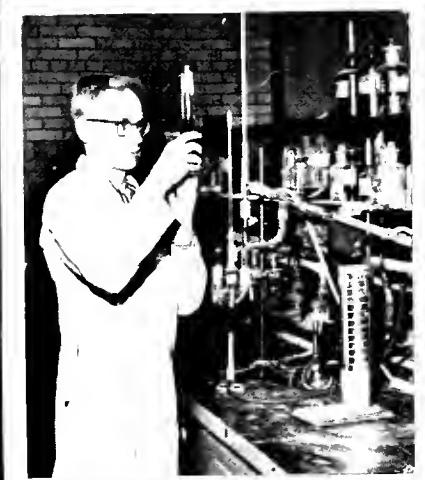

Tomorrow—this, too, will be ours. It is we who will define its scope, determine its dimensions; we who now stand confidently on the threshold of a new life—one that we must create and build for ourselves. Now the years of college will fall into their place and gain significance as we begin to find our place in the mighty workings of our world. The sparkling lights of a big city will beckon to some; others will find a life in the gleaming whiteness of scientific laboratories; some will go on to train new, young minds to continue the constant process of creation of which we are a part. For create we must, this is our duty to our world. We stand in our uniqueness, each of us with something new and different to add. We know our future will depend on us—its happiness, its sadness. There is excitement in this thought—the wondrous dawning of our own power, the discovery of our ability. This we have tested and developed throughout our days at William and Mary—we have grown to know ourselves. Far from being afraid, we are ready—ready to build our Tomorrow.
